TOWN AND CITY BOARDS APPROVE PLANS FOR NEW BRIDGE OVER ESOPUS

At Joint Meeting Thursday Plans for Steel Structure Designed by County Superintendent Loughran Adopted—Temporary Bridge to be Erected—Present Bridge Unsafe.

The town board of the town of Ulster will meet this week and fix a date for holding a special taxpayers' election to vote on the question of whether the taxpayers of that town were willing to pay half of the cost of the construction of a proposed bridge over the Esopus creek at Washington avenue, to replace the present structure which has been condemned by the state highway department.

A joint meeting of the town board of Ulster and the board of public works was held Thursday afternoon at the city hall with Mayor Morris presiding. At the last meeting of the board of public works earlier in the month the plans for a proposed bridge over the Esopus creek had been designed by James F. Loughran, county superintendent of highways, and approved by the state highway department, were also approved by the city board.

The proposed new bridge will cost $200,000, according to County Superintendent Loughran's estimate. The cost of the bridge will be borne by the town of Ulster pays half and the state highway department the other half.

At the meeting Thursday the town board also had approved the plans for the steel structure, but that it was necessary to hold a special election for the taxpayers of the town to vote on the question. The town board can only expend $4,000 in any one year. If it has to expend more it is necessary to hold an election.

The board of public works adopted a resolution directing Superintendent Darrow to proceed to construct a temporary bridge over the Esopus creek and to ask the town board to direct its town superintendent to cooperate in building the structure. This temporary bridge will be built strong enough to take care of the traffic.

Superintendent Darrow will not be able to proceed with the temporary structure, however, until the frost is out of the ground. It is planned to use that part of Washington avenue as a right of way over the temporary structure that was abandoned when the present viaduct was erected. To use the abandoned part of the street it will be necessary to cross over the grade crossings of the U. & D. and the O & W. railroads.

Corporation Counsel James J. Jensen will take the matter up shortly with the public service commission at Albany asking for permission to use the grade crossings until the proposed new bridge is built and thrown open to traffic.

Even if the taxpayers of the town of Ulster reject the proposition to pay its share of the proposed new bridge the work will not be delayed as then the board of public works would take the matter up in the courts and compel the town to pay its share of the cost. It is expected, however, that the proposition will be carried at the special election to be held within the next few weeks.

County Superintendent Loughran will prepare plans and specifications for the new bridge and advertise for bids.

The temporary bridge will be erected as quickly as possible as the present bridge is not considered safe to carry the traffic.

Rural School Bill Hearing

Education Committee to Listen to Its Friends and Foes on March 19 at Albany—Main Provisions.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., March 7.—A bill on the Downing-Porter rural school bill will be held before the education committee of both houses on March 19, it was announced at the capitol today.

Governor Smith and Dr. Frank P. Graves, state education commissioner, are bending every effort to have the bill passed. They conferred for more than an hour on the bill last night.

Advocates of the bill declare the opposition in the assembly is based on a general misunderstanding. Many Republican members of the lower house are said to be strongly opposed to it.

Salient provisions of the measure include an increase of $12,000,000 in state aid for county education and consolidation of school districts. It also would enlarge the scope of taxation and administration of rural schools and greatly increase the apportionment of money raised by direct state tax for the school systems.

Progressive Pinocchio Party. Auxiliary 53 of Tappan Camp No. 1 will hold a progressive pinocchio party at the home of Mrs. Louis Cole, 373 Washington avenue, this evening. The public is cordially invited.

$200 Verdict For Ostrander

In His Action to Make Wilhelmina Budd Pay for Furniture—Mrs. Tyrone Sues for Damages Sustained to Truck Collision.

A verdict in the sum of $200 with interest was awarded plaintiff in the action brought in supreme court by Irving Ostrander against Wilhelmina Budd. The case was tried Thursday before Justice Howard. Plaintiff sued to recover $200 balance due him for furniture which was purchased by Mr. Budd, who plaintiff claimed, was acting as agent for defendant. The Budds operated the Budd Inn at Napanoch, Leroy Lounsbury, with Ward Wilkerson, appeared for plaintiff, and Van Etten & Cook, by Andrew J. Cook, for defendant.

An action brought by Mary C. Tyrone against Garfield Reynolds to recover damages to an automobile truck owned by her was commenced. Mrs. Tyrone, who has the contract to build the road from Bearsville to Willow, had sent one of her trucks to Herkimer to bring back some furniture and a casing needed on the job. At Fleischmanns on the return trip the truck and a milk truck operated by defendant came together, wrecking the Ford truck of plaintiff. She seeks to recover damages and moneys for loss of use of the truck.

Defendant claims that his view of the approaching car was obstructed, as he turned his truck loaded with milk into the main street of Fleischmanns by another truck which stood at the corner. He claims the accident was unavoidable and that plaintiff was equally negligent in negligence was shown by either party.

Van Etten & Cook appear for the plaintiff and Frederick Mellor for the defendant.

French Franc at Lowest Value

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Mar. 7.—The drop of the French franc carried it to a new low mark for all time today when it was quoted at 3.82 cents. This was a decline of 1 1/2 points from yesterday's close.

Pat Moran at Point of Death

By Telegram to The Freeman. Orlando, Fla., Mar. 7.—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is at the point of death this morning. He is not expected to live through the day. His latest ailment is nephritis.

POUGHKEEPSIE WANTED TO PLAY PASSAIC

The physical director of the Poughkeepsie High School issued a challenge to the famous Passaic High School with a guarantee of $100 for a game in Poughkeepsie. The game could not be played according to a letter received from the state athletic commission as the New Jersey championships have started. The Poughkeepsie coach says that if Poughkeepsie won the DUGO title that would take the state championship. If Kingston beats Newburgh next week the local quintet will be given an opportunity to clean up the state honors.

Game Protector to Talk

To accommodate the large number of sportsmen and those interested in the conservation of natural resources, the Saugerties Fish and Game Protective Association will meet in Community House hall, Saugerties, this evening at 8 o'clock. Henry T. Ashton, of Catskill, state game protector, will give a talk on the conservation laws and our natural resources. The public is invited.

Home Made Food Sale

The Pearl Gatherers of the Clinton Avenue Sunday school will hold a sale of home made cake, pie, bread, beans, etc., at the store of Mrs. A. V. Claffin, 648 Broadway, on Saturday afternoon.

Saugerties Board Meeting

The Town Board will meet this evening when the question of purchasing the voting machines will be given consideration. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

The opening series of banquets cost $7.50 a plate, but after "the captains and the kings depart" banquets will be served at from $2 a plate up. The local Kiwanis Club has engaged the hotel for its weekly luncheons at $1 a plate. In the coffee room breakfasts are served at from 35 cents to $1 and also a la carte.

Although the hotel staff had not yet settled down to normal, 600 meals were served on Wednesday without any serious complications. "Kingston, a beautiful place," remarked President Black of the company that owns the Burritt, "but the thing I remember is that Kingston is the place where I couldn't get a room in any of the hotels and finally had to drive out to a village called Kerhonkson in order to find a place to sleep. I would like to visit Kingston again, but not until there is a place to sleep. Kerhonkson is too far away."

EIGHTH ANNUAL AUTO SHOW HAS MOST SATISFACTORY FIRST DAY

Capacity Crowd Gets Initial Glimpse of Scores of New Models—Mayor Block and Palmer Canfield Discuss Relation of Prohibition To Increased Consumption of Gasoline.

TONIGHT'S MUSIC AT BIG AUTO SHOW.

One of the pleasing features of the big auto show at the armory is the fine musical program rendered by the Imperial Orchestra, who play both afternoon and evening.

Tonight's program follows: March, "Soul of the Nation" Fox Trot, "Sure As You're Born" Fox Trot, "I've Got a Song for Sale" Fox Trot, "There Are Things You Never Forget" Waltz, "Circibiribi" One Step, "Wow" Fox Trot, "Who Will It Be" Fox Trot, "Happy and Go-Lucky in My Old Kentucky Home" Fox Trot, "Havana" Waltz, "The Mill in the Forest" Fox Trot, "Sine-a-Sona of Swance" March, "Covered Wagon Days"

The eighth annual Kingston Automobile Show, under the auspices of The Automotive Dealers' Association of Kingston, was formerly opened on Thursday evening with a record attendance of folks and a record display of automobiles. In fact it was such a big success that it was entirely beyond the possible imaginings of those who attended the first Automobile show held in the armory eight years ago. Besides the autos and autos and more autos displayed there were multitudinous accessories, down to a microscopic screw driver that looked like some utensil from My Lady's work basket, it was so dainty.

To be up-to-date one must be colorful and the Automotive Dealers are certainly up-to-date in the decorations they have used to make the drill shed attractive. Flags are the decorations and there are flags of many nations and some that no nation known to the writer would claim, but they are very colorful and decorative and make a splendid background for the shining, sleek, speedy, elaborate, useful etc.—and there are a good many of the "etc." cars on the floor. By parking the Imperial orchestra in the balcony, every bit of the floor room has been made available for showing purposes or for space for the visitors. Yet in spite of the widened aisles it was pretty crowded on Thursday evening, it being estimated that there were upward of two thousand people in the attendance at the formal opening.

While the crowd began to assemble to the music furnished by the orchestra, it was not until the bugle sounded that there was sufficient of a lull in the hum of conversation that arose from the floor, and the sound of moving feet, so that the speakers could be heard, by at least part of these present.

Mayor Block formally opened the meeting and in doing so said: "I have been asked to introduce to you the speaker of the evening. Having been so closely allied with him in the affairs of the city for many years and knowing from this connection that any topic he may decide to address to you will be of interest to you, I want to thank you for the privilege and to say that I consider it an honor to be favored with this assignment, not that I think an introduction is necessary but because on these occasions it is the usual procedure. Your association surely used good judgment in selecting its spokesman. However, in my opinion this choice was not altogether for the purpose of conferring an honor but partly for a selfish reason. In explanation of the statement just made I would say that it seems to me that the extraordinary business done by the members of this association in the past few years is due in a large measure to the activities of the gentleman I am about to present to address you."

While I cannot quote statistics to prove my assertion I am fully convinced that were it not for the restrictions placed upon the sale of strong drink by our government and enforced by the Prohibition Director, the number of cars sold would have been considerably less.

Probably few of your members realize why the demand for automobiles has been so heavy. Confidently I would say that a considerable percentage of this demand can be accounted for in the activities of Mr. Canfield.

You no doubt know that these activities have advanced the cost of liquor to such an extent that people who formerly indulged were compelled to discontinue its use. The savings thus effected were in most cases used in the purchase of cars thus increasing the demand. This diagnosis looks very plausible to me as it is estimated that at present prices a fairly good car can be purchased with the money saved by dispensing with drink for a few months. Of course, I cannot assert that this condition is a result of a frame-up by your association and Mr. Canfield but to me it would seem that there is some connection.

Surgeon Also A Detective

Kingstonian, Called to Treat Unknown Woman When Ship's Doctor Was Incompetent, Found She Was Mrs. Schoellkopf.

Mrs. Hugo Schoellkopf, wife of a millionaire Buffalo man, arrived in New York from Europe on the Borengaria Thursday morning and was at once recognized by the reporters, as was also "Barry" Carman, her escort some months ago when she was robbed of a fabulous quantity of jewels, most of which have since been recovered. Mr. Carman also arrived on the Borengaria.

The reporters were less vigilant when Mrs. Schoellkopf sailed nearly two months ago on the Conte Verde for Italy, her name not being on the passenger list and none aboard, apparently knowing her identity. The weather was very rough during part of the trip and the mysterious woman was thrown from her berth, her shoulder being dislocated when she struck the floor of her cabin. The ship's doctor was at once summoned, but he proved to be lacking in surgical training and Dr. George F. Chandler of this city, who, with Mrs. Chandler, was a passenger, was called and put the bone back in place. Dr. Chandler found reason to suspect who the woman was and asked if her name was not Mrs. Hugo Schoellkopf, which she finally admitted. "secret," Mr. Carman, in company, was also on board the Conte Verde.

Passengers on the return trip commented that while Mrs. Schoellkopf might have lost a fortune in jewels, she had plenty left judging from the dazzling display on her person.

St. James's Seeks To Retain Pastor

At the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the St. James Church the Return of the Rev. J. Wilbur Telley as Pastor Was Urged—Also Desires Return of Dr. Grinton.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church was held Thursday night in the church, and was largely attended by the members of the church, who had an opportunity to listen to the reports of the various organizations of the church. The conference was presided over by the Rev. George W. Grinton, the district superintendent.

The action of the official board in asking for the return of the Rev. J. Wilbur Telley as pastor of the church for another year was confirmed and the district superintendent was asked to use his influence with the bishop to secure his return.

The Rev. Dr. Grinton was given a rising vote of thanks for his splendid work on the district, and it was voted to send a letter to Bishop Luther B. Wilson, urging him to again appoint Dr. Grinton district superintendent of the Kingston district.

The idea of having a congregational meeting in connection with the quarterly conference is a new one for the St. James Church, and was very much appreciated by the large number who were present, who listened to the reports from all the societies of the church. These reports were listened to with great interest, and a much greater knowledge of the activities of the church was gained, stimulating an interest in the affairs of the church, which will grow as the days go by.

The enthusiasm of the leaders of these societies was evidenced by the high character of the reports, for they were really inspirational reports.

After the meeting had adjourned a social hour was had and refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid Society.

POLICE SEIZED SLOT MACHINE IN WHITE TILE LUNCH ROOM

Thursday Officers Leonard and Harnen walked into the White Tile Lunch on Railroad avenue, and when they left they had a large slot machine tucked under their arms, which they had seized. It is understood that the proprietor of the lunch room was informed by the one who installed the machine that it complied with the law. The matter will come up later before Judge Schirck in police court at which time it is likely that the machine will be ordered destroyed.

"THE PRINCIPAL" WAS SENATOR CURTIS AND FALL WAS CALLED "APPLES"

In Code Messages To McLean—Daugherty Known as "Wylge"—Post's Chief Editorial Writer, Bennett, Testifies.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 7.—Plunging ahead in their efforts to solve the secrets contained in the many code messages that passed in and out of Washington between the prominent figures in the oil scandal, the senate public lands committee today discovered that "apples" meant ex-Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall, that "Wylge" meant Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and that "The Principal" referred to Senator Curtis, Republican, Kansas.

These secrets were learned from Ira E. Bennett, chief editorial writer on the Washington Post, E. B. McLean's upper, during the course of a severe grilling on the witness stand following the introduction of more of the famous telegrams. Bennett was author of many of the messages.

The revelation concerning the identity of "The Principal" created a distinct surprise, as Senator Hoffman, Democrat, Alabama, had charged on the floor of the senate that the principal was President Coolidge himself. Bennett carefully explained that the "rocking the boat" expression was his own and did not apply to the "principal."

"That's quite a well known message," said Bennett. "The second part had nothing to do with the first part. The 'rocking the boat' part and the 'no resignations' part had nothing to do with 'principal'."

"It was my own opinion gathered as a correspondent around the White House," said Bennett. "It has no connection with Senator Curtis."

There was a pronounced stir in the crowded room when Walsh began questioning Bennett about the famous "principal" telegram. This message had been sent by Bennett to McLean and reported he had seen "the principal" who had assured him there would be "no rocking the boat" and no resignations.

Bennett explained that McLean had given him a message to Senator Curtis.

"I delivered it and Senator Curtis said he greatly appreciated the message," Bennett added. "I merely added to that message my personal opinion of the impression I gathered at the White House press conference with the president."

Bennett said a paraphrase of the message should read this way to convey its true meaning.

"Saw Senator Curtis. Delivered message. He says he greatly appreciates and sends his regards. Was at White House with representatives of the press and the president conveyed the idea to me in effect there will be no rocking of the boat and no resignations. Senator Curtis expects reaction from unwarranted political attacks."

Bennett said, however, that Curtis had told him "there would be reaction to these political attacks."

This sentence followed the one in the telegram which referred to "no resignations."

"I wrote the message hastily," Bennett said. "I should have put in 'in my opinion' for it would be wrong to infer Senator Curtis said there would be no rocking of the boat."

"As it stands, the message is unintelligible."

The general effect of the message I delivered to Senator Curtis was 'McLean is all right and would come through this all right because he appreciates the fact it was more or less a political matter.'

"This message was sent at 1:20 that day, just after the press conference ended," Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, interposed.

"As a matter of fact you didn't have time to see Senator Curtis and you sent this message on the impressions you got at the White House?"

"Oh, no I saw Senator Curtis before that and I incorporated my interview with him in this telegram," said Bennett.

"Are we to understand that the president made the statement to you about 'no rocking of the boat'?" asked Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico.

"No," Bennett shouted. "He did not."

"He certainly did not. The president made no such statement to me that there would be no rocking of the boat."

ACCESSORIES NOT THE LEAST PART OF THE SHOW; RADIO FANS GATHER

The Balloon Tire is The Subject of Much Curiosity at The Armory—A Multitude of Things to Hang, Screw, Bolt or Rivet on Your Car.

Everyone who goes to the armory to see the automobile show naturally expects to see automobiles and they do see automobiles of all kinds, colors, shapes and sizes, but in addition to automobiles there are many other things which to a motorist are equally as important. Accessories, things which are useful as well as ornamental, are shown at the armory in a vast array.

The Brown Auto Supply Company has the booth at the left of the entrance where Mr. Brown shows a wide variety of motor car accessories, tires, etc. During the evening Mr. Brown was kept busy explaining the points of advantage of the Balloon Tire.

To the right is James Austin who demonstrates the advantages of Dayton low air pressure tires as well as answering questions in regard to balloon tires. Mr. Austin beside handling Dayton tires and Victor tires and tubes is a mighty important man to motorists at times. Mr. Austin is an expert when it comes to gas and arc welding and cutting as a great many automobile owners know.

The L. S. Winne & Company booth shows such a wide variety of automobile accessories and parts that it is almost impossible to describe them. This booth is one of the most attractive and well arranged booths at the show and it will be necessary to visit the show and see this booth to appreciate it.

The Kingston Oil Company also is represented. Cars of oil and parts of grease and charts showing the importance of using good oil and gas to run a back ground for the miniature Tyrol gas station which has been reproduced.

Of course "It's tires, see Brown." "Brownie" has the record for having the largest tire at the show. A General cord truck tire size 41 by 16 attracts the attention of everyone and causes much speculation as to how much it costs. The tire, "Brownie" says he wouldn't "swap" for one of James Millard's Ford touring cars across the way. This offer does not include the big Lincoln which is shown with the Fords. Mr. Brown gives away a free tube with every tire purchased and he also hands out free of charge information in regard to balloon tires which he predicts are the coming tires.

The Automobile Club of Ulster County is also represented at the show. Dr. Melnhart, secretary, is willing to have all motorists sign on the dotted line and become members of the club.

of this live wife organization which is doing its best each year for the motorists. Legislation which would be a burden to automobile owners each year is fought by this organization which is affiliated with the other clubs of the state and represents a large proportion of the automobile owners of the state.

Batteries of all kinds, battery trouble of all kinds, although the Vanderlyn Battery Company doesn't have much trouble with its batteries, are explained at its booth.

At the booth of M. H. Herzog Mr. Herzog personally meets his friends and hands out a miniature screw-driver with the advice, "fix your car" while next to his stands a man handling out a generous sized bottle of High Luster Polish with the advice that "after you have fixed your car, polish it." Mr. Herzog shows a line of accessories and parts.

From the main floor you can "Toddlie" to Todd's for tires in one of the rooms directly back of the drill shed, where Mr. Todd will explain why he can recommend Norwalk tires to Kingston car owners.

In this same room the Eagle Garage shows a sample from its cylinder grinding department. The "garage with a conscience" makes a specialty of regrinding motor blocks which have before worn or scored.

C. A. Warren when he is not busy at the spaces of the Nash and Cadillac assisting in making sales can be found in the room to the rear of the drill shed where he shows a variety of radio sets.

Gregory & Company also have a space where radio equipment is displayed. Sets of all kinds from the small simple set to the elaborate set which is an ornament to any home are shown.

Carl Miller & Son also have an exhibit of radio equipment, and the radio fan circles from one exhibit to the other talking all sorts of technical terms and asking questions and securing information.

William D. Hawk also occupies a space at the show where various electrical things are displayed.

Robert J. Harder, another electrical dealer, is also represented. He displays electrical appliances and electrical light plants for the farm or suburban home.

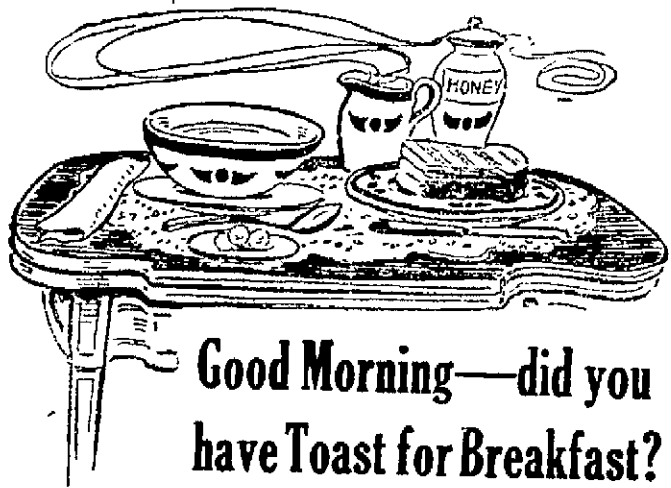

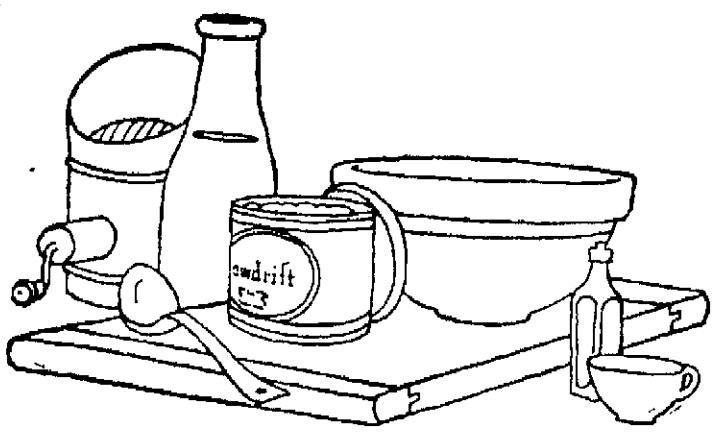

Although the accessories are but a small portion of the show, when it comes to interest the crowds seem to find this branch of the show one of the most interesting. At all of the exhibits a good sized crowd was constantly in attendance and the attendants were kept busy answering questions.

Try it in your favorite cake. It is much easier to cream because it is already so creamy itself.

LOYALTY IS MOST IMPORTANT WORD

Wine First Place in Lists of Six Supplied by Savants.

Princeton.—That "loyalty" is the most important word in the English language today is the consensus of a representative group of Princeton professors, a noted Egyptologist and the university proctor here. The question was raised in a discussion in a preceptorial meeting, and to settle the discussion Prof. Christian Gauss, director of public relations, recently made inquiry among eight professors, Proctor Bovie and Dr. David Paton, the Egyptologist.

President Hibben when asked for a list of six most important words in the language placed "loyalty" second only to "duty." Dean West of the Graduate college, foremost American educator, and Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, director of the department of physical education, both ranked "loyalty" first, an intellectual and a physical authority thus being at one in this choice. Three other men placed "loyalty" either first or second in their six word lists—Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, professor of English literature and rowing coach; David Paton, Egyptologist, and Proctor Henry Bovie.

Courage Next to Loyalty.

"Courage" followed "loyalty" with four selections. Here again Dean West and Doctor Raycroft were at one in their choice. Prof. Duane Reed Stuart of the classics department also chose this word as did Dr. Stewart Paton, brother of the Egyptologist and noted neurobiologist. Doctor Paton created quite a stir recently when he predicted that intercollegiate football must some day be abolished because of its commercialism, but he attributed great virtue to the game as a means of attaining sportsmanship and courage.

Although his chief interest is in education, Dean West placed "knowledge" after "loyalty" and "magnanimity." Dr. Henry van Dyke, formerly professor of English literature at Princeton, chose common every day words such as "yes" and "no," "the" and "a." David Paton concluded his list with "a catholic sense of humor" without which he said any man is certain to take himself too seriously. The complete word lists chosen follow:

Complete Lists of Words.

President Hibben, duty, loyalty, honor, self-control, service, sacrifice.

Dean West, loyalty, magnanimity, knowledge, energy, courage, humor.

Dr. van Dyke, a, the, is, no, yes, do.

Prof. Edwin G. Conklin, head of the department of biology, sincerity, sanity, humanity, love, truth, beauty.

Doctor Raycroft, loyalty, courage, persistence, self-respect, sportsmanship, tolerance.

Professor Stuart, sensitiveness, restraint, sportsmanship, courage, self-knowledge, altruism.

Doctor Spaeth, liberty, loyalty, sympathy, justice, intelligence, character.

Dr. David Paton, loyalty (for friendship's sake), charity (for charity's sake), work (for work's sake), sport (for sport's sake), a catholic sense of humor.

Dr. Stewart Paton, truth, courage, perseverance, health, family, friends.

Proctor Bovie, religion, loyalty, honesty, fairness, work, recreation.

Many Kinds of Animals Swept Up From Streets

New York.—If all the things the sanitary bureau of the department of health gathered from the streets of New York city in 1922, according to belated reports for that year, were in good working order and assembled in one place there would be the nucleus for a good menagerie. The report shows that the bureau dragged up the bodies of one lion, one bear, one alligator, two camels, three elephants, one deer, 5,897 horses, 308 cattle, 16 ponies, 11 colts, 8 mules, 4 donkeys, 254,803 cats, 4,538 dogs, 741 calves, 375 sheep, 345 goats, 45 hogs and 3 seals.

The report does not say where the seals, the alligator, the camels, the elephants, the lion and the bear came from. In fact the report has it that the bureau is as surprised as anybody.

Girl Dresses Doll in Lost Bonds Worth $40,000

Chicago.—Eileen Berry, eight years old, playing along the street near her home, discovered in the snow an envelope containing several papers with gold edges.

"What have you there, Eileen?" asked her father, the next evening, as he noticed her marking out plans on the papers.

"Just some pretty paper to make dresses for my dolls," she said as she held up one of the papers.

Mr. Berry investigated and was struck speechless. The "pretty papers" were gold bonds, worth $40,000, all negotiable, with $1000 interest coupons attached. Inquiry at the bank disclosed they had been lost by A. G. Becker, head of an investment company bearing his name, and he gave Eileen $100 wherewith to buy less expensive material for her doll dresses.

Dog Bites Cost $70,000

Jersey City, N. J.—It cost Hudson county $70,000 to treat 900 persons who were bitten by dogs there last year, according to statements by Dr. John Von Der Leth, a veterinary surgeon, before the annual convention of the Veterinary Medical Association of New Jersey in Jersey City recently. Each person bitten had to undergo the Pasteur treatment, which costs the county $75.

CRIPPLE SAVES 100 WHEN HOTEL BURNS

Heroism of Syracuse Man Prevents Disaster.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Heroism of a crippled man was a vital factor in preventing a disaster when flames threatened the Hotel Warner, in which one hundred persons were asleep.

Arthur Priour, one of the owners of the hotel, aroused by the smell of smoke, hobbled on crutches from room to room, aroused the endangered by thumping on their doors and made a quick checkup to see that all the guests had left the building. Tense work was expedited by the arrival of firemen, and it was stated that within seven minutes after the alarm had been sounded the six-story building, opposite the New York Central station, was evacuated.

Only one guest was reported injured. John E. J. Clare of New York, who slid down a rope from the fifth floor and fell to the ground unconscious when several feet above the sidewalk. More than a score were carried down ladders.

After Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hall and little daughter Mary of New York were on a fire escape, the child remembered that she had left her doll in her room. Despite the density of the smoke she insisted that her father save the doll. With the plaything safe in her arms Mary consented to go down the fire escape.

More than half the guests at the hotel were women and at no time was there any sign of panic. Women and children came down the fire ladders as calmly as did the men.

The damage to the building was estimated at $30,000, caused mostly by water. The blaze started in a cellar from an undetermined cause.

Armless Man Uses His Feet to Play Cornet

London.—James Elroy, thirty-five years old, a performer at the Olympia in London, who was deprived of his arms in a fire while a child, but who has learned to use his feet to accomplish everything that one can do with their hands. He dresses, shaves and feeds himself and is a rifle shot and good cornet player. Before entering the show business he was an engraver. The photograph shows Mr. Elroy playing the cornet.

New Anesthetic Is Used to Ripen Oranges

St. Louis.—The development of ethylene, a new anesthetic, was described by Dr. A. B. Lockhardt and Dr. J. B. Carter, its discoverers, before the closing session of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology recently.

Although objection to its use as an anesthetic has been made because of its odor and because it may explode if exposed to flames, or a spark, Doctor Lockhardt, who read the paper, said ethylene was being used successfully and that experiments have shown that it produces no ill effects even on children and old men. Ethylene is being successfully used also, he asserted, to ripen oranges and lemons artificially.

Ethylene, Doctor Lockhardt declared, is present in automobile exhausts and the fumes from an untrimmed kerosene lamp. It also has been found in illuminating gas.

Strange Malady Hits 1,000

Leavenworth, Kan.—Nearly 1,000 persons in Leavenworth are reported suffering from a strange malady with symptoms which recently baffled physicians in Santa Anna, Cal. The victims are attacked suddenly with nausea and become ill, but usually recover within thirty-six to forty-eight hours.

Sweden Electrified

Stockholm.—Sweden has bought her last steam locomotive. She expects to electrify all of her railway lines within ten years, the operating power to be developed almost entirely from the many waterfalls of the country.

Ice Imprisons Man in Ship's Crow's Nest

New York.—An icy blast of 100 miles drove spray of tall seas above the crow's nest of the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav, in recently from Copenhagen, and she was so tightly frozen up forward that the lookout in the crow's nest signaled for help. They rescued him with rope and tackle. The foremast was a massive ice stalagmite.

Improving Sugar Making

When sugar first was made from beets it took about twenty tons of beets to produce one ton of sugar; now it requires but six tons, the change being due to scientific production of the beets.

This One Thing Only

See the True Blue Oakland Six-54 before you choose your car. This one thing only is all we ask.

Next to a home, an automobile is the average family's greatest single expenditure.

Surely your consideration of motor cars must therefore include a careful examination of every automobile that can possibly give you greater satisfaction for your money.

Only when you see it, examine it, ride in it, drive it, will you appreciate why the True Blue Oakland is the most advanced car in its class.

—most advanced because no limitation was placed upon Oakland engineers other than that they design a powerful, smooth-running, balanced six of extreme endurance.

To create such a car, Oakland engineers, in cooperation with General Motors experts, worked for two years.

Included in its construction are more worth-while improvements than in any other car in its class.

Name them over and you will not find one missing: Brand new engine with automatic spark advance, four-wheel brakes, bodies by Fisher, permanent top, centralized controls, special Oakland permanent satin finish, disc wheels, etc.

These are the facts. You can easily prove them for yourself. The power, endurance, smoothness, economy and safety of the Oakland Six have been demonstrated to motorists, in every state, by Oakland's six True Blue Travelers.

Their records have been duplicated by thousands of True Blue Oaklands now in service, some with mileage records up into five figures.

That is why we emphasize this one thing only. See the True Blue Oakland. Examine it. Ride in it. Drive it. That tells the whole story.

Fabrics Favored for Spring Wear

Chinese Influence Factor in Materials and Colors for Season.

In discussing the present tendencies in French fabrics, costume details and colors in their relation to the American market, the fashion service department of the Boston Worsteds Mills in a special bulletin outlines the following: "Lacquer red, in both the fresh and antique rendition, is particularly emphasized by the French contour for the spring season. This color is particularly popular in relation to navy and black. Alpaca, broadcloth and the silk jersey. With white kasha and tannal are equally important as a sports material.

"Although much is heard of the essential simplicity of both Riviera and Palm Beach collections, they offer no lack of dullness, the new fabrics make possible a series of fresh and wonderfully animated styles. The metal accent is conspicuous in the alpaca, to which one hears constant reference on the reds, and is regarded with special favor in lacquer, jade, the Chinese blue and yellow, and, in conjunction with artificial silk in beautiful patterns upon silk, wool and cotton fabrics.

Prominent in the list of plant materials are the plaid alpaca. These produce Chinese colors with fine lines of metal and are among the dominant black, silk and fiber and silk and wool alpaca versions. Of these crapalets are regarded with special interest at present.

"A material reminiscent of earlier Chinese movements is China silk, which has not been favored by the consumer in many seasons. It is regarded to a high position in the list of sports silks because of its timely reappearance in a series of striking black and stripes submitted under the name of toile de soie. Another factor in the success of Chinese tendencies is the unqualified vogue of crepe de chine. A new version offers woven stripes in the clear colors in a styling similar to men's silk shirtings, which now enjoy an acclaimed success as sports fabrics.

"In evening materials sheer laces, numerous metal flouncings and all colors are stressed. Chantilly is emphasized and tulle retains the high prestige it established in the early fall collections.

"In the list of notable spring colors now recognized as firmly entrenched, navy is everywhere quoted as the leading street shade. Black holds well, but it is anticipated that black in combination with white and with red will find its vogue best upheld in American.

"Combinations especially advocated at present are navy and gold-brown, blue and emerald, blue and crushed berry, blue and scarlet, blue and yellow, tan and scarlet. A clear pink orange is under strong development, as are several greens of both gray and yellow cast. Rosewood is again in demand. Wherever blues are discussed emphasis is laid upon a soft hyacinth blue. Parma violet is increasing in importance. Tans are stronger than gray at present, and the shade so much favored by French women, blonde, a tone which parallels beige on American charts, is to be found among the smartest productions in both afternoon and evening dress.

"One notable trend is that of the 'bleached' shade, formerly associated with kasha as a natural cashmere tone. This influence obtains particularly in the de luxe woollens class. White is generally upheld as the dominant mid-summer note, and a list of new whites is included in nearly all showings of crepe de chine, marocain and satin reversibles.

250,000 LETTERS TO ANSWER.

Noting that the courtesy of the franking privilege has usually been extended by Congress to the widows of deceased presidents, Paul Collins, Washington correspondent, says: "Probably there has never been an instance wherein the death of a president has brought such an overwhelming mail to be answered. Mrs. Wilson has received not less than 250,000 letters of condolence, many from kings, presidents and other distinguished personages. All must receive personal acknowledgment. The postage on 250,000 answers would cost $5,000, even for domestic mail, and in this case much foreign postage will be required. The cost of stationery and secretary hire make the total expense quite formidable even with free postage. As most of this extraordinary burden is directly due to President Wilson's public service, it is but reasonable that the postage be granted free, and also that the usual pension given to widows of departed presidents should not be unduly delayed."

This overlooks the great burden of labor, or at least, of studios attention, imposed upon Mrs. Wilson by the supposed necessity of sending a "personal acknowledgment" of 250,000 letters, a burden that the franking privilege and the pension combined could not remove. It may well be doubted whether such a burden ought to be imposed upon the widow of a president. Does etiquette really require personal answers to letters of condolence by a widow or any bereaved person, except possibly in cases of family relationship or very intimate friendship? It should not, and the opinion has been expressed that it does not.

HOSPITABLE MONTICELLO.

In connection with the campaign of the National Monticello Association to raise funds to purchase Thomas Jefferson's old home and make it a permanent memorial similar to Mount Vernon, some interesting facts have been brought to light as to how old-fashioned ideas of hospitality and keeping "open house" brought Jefferson to the verge of bankruptcy and made it necessary for his friends to intervene to keep a roof over his head. Jefferson wished to retire to a quiet life, but such was his distinction and popularity that he was overwhelmed with visitors, and a visit in that period usually meant a stay of at least a few days. Instead of the quiet home his master sought, Monticello became almost a hotel in all but charges for entertainment. "The door of his mansion," reads Morse's biography, "hospitable even beyond Virginian precedent, stood ever open, and the stream of visitors passed in and out. Relatives came with their families and stayed for months; friends treated the generous host as their own; people of distinction claimed and received briefer entertainment."

No wonder hospitality of the "open house" variety has departed even from the South in these busier times of high living costs. The generous and prideful old custom is long out of date not merely because of the pecuniary cost, but because nobody nowadays with any business or profession or studies to pursue, however fond of continuing social intercourse, can afford to devote more than half the time to the entertainment of guests.

Mrs. Travis H. Whitney, who was a part of the State Industrial Commission under the Miller administration, recently said that while some women felt that they knew all about what the working women want, working women, among other things, desired to be let alone once in a while. The same thing applies to others beside working women.

The women are seeking the light in things political. While men have voted longer than women there are many men who would not be injured were they to follow the example of women and try to learn a few things about who's who and what's what in government. There always is a chance for all of us to learn something.

HARDENING OF THE LIVER.

You have heard of hardening of the arteries, hardening of the kidneys, and also of the liver. You have perhaps wondered just what caused such soft organs to become hard, and just what the effect was on the organs themselves and upon the entire body.

About the simplest way to think of the structure of the liver for instance, would be to think of a crate of eggs packed in those cardboard divisions. The eggs would be the liver cells, and the cardboard would be the connective tissue that holds them together.

Coming into each cell and out of it would be vessels. Now if you were to make those cardboard subdivisions a bit thicker, there would be less room for the eggs. In other words you'd have to put in smaller eggs. If you made it still thicker you'd need even smaller eggs and so forth.

Similarly when you eat or drink certain kinds of food it has the effect of inflaming the connective tissue holding the liver cells together.

This tissue at first swells and squeezes the liver cells until they become smaller, and then when the inflammation dies down, the tissue actually contracts like a scar from a scar from a wound or a burn, and the whole liver is smaller than it was before. It is also a good deal harder, because this connective tissue is hard and fibrous like scar tissue. Thus you have a hardening of the liver.

Now it is pretty well agreed that too much tea, coffee, alcohol, and spicy foods cause a large percentage of the trouble, although simple ailments like scarlet fever can likewise be the cause.

When the trouble is just beginning it is usually accompanied by a feeling of nausea and even vomiting, and the tongue is badly coated.

Later the blood vessels become obstructed, and the person becomes stout, just about the abdomen whilst the rest of the body is extremely thin.

There is often some drowsiness and slight jaundice of the skin.

So as in the case of a fur coat on the tongue, nausea and vomiting.

Your first thought should be the liver, and the possibility of some inflammation there.

Do without food for a day or two. Do without pepper, spices, alcohol, tea and coffee for some weeks. Avoid meat and eggs also. Eat vegetables, and drink butter-milk for awhile.

Come back to your regular diet slowly.

You can eat or drink almost anything if you are working hard outdoors. Most of us live indoor lives and must live simply if we're to live at all.

ROCK HILL.

Rock Hill, March 6.—The entertainment held at the school house on Friday evening, February 29, was well attended. A cafeteria luncheon was served. $15.49 was cleared. This will be used to carry on the hot lunch which the children serve at noon. The teacher and children wish to thank all those who so kindly contributed cake, etc., and helped to make it a success.

Frank W. Rosa and William Rosa made a business trip to Kerhonkson on Saturday.

James Shers has purchased a team of horses.

Mrs. David Purcell of Allgerville spent Friday of the past week with Mrs. Frank W. Rosa.

The Turner family, who have been quite ill with colds, are improving at this writing.

RIFTON.

Rifton, March 6.—Miss Cornelia Terwilliger entertained a few of her friends from Kingston and this place Tuesday evening at an "Old Maid's Party." A very enjoyable time was had by all. Miss Emma Vandaley entertained with several piano solos.

Miss Helen Pomeroy sang "That Old Gang of Mine." A novelty fox trot was given by Miss Flo Relyea and Miss Cornelia Terwilliger. Miss Emma Hunder played some old fashioned songs and the latest hits on the ukulele while the entire party sang.

At eleven o'clock the guests were ushered into the dining room, where a bounteous luncheon was served and several toasts given. At midnight the guests departed.

Miss Terwilliger a royal entertainer, also regretting that she had to be confined to her home the greater part of the winter by sickness.

Mrs. Russmann is now at home, after undergoing a serious operation in the Kingston City Hospital.

Miss Flo Relyea spent a few days at the home of her chum, Miss Terwilliger, returning to her home in Kingston Wednesday.

The Arrow Bus is now making its regular trips after having a new top.

Mrs. Dave Friedman is spending a few days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Rose spent Sunday with Mrs. Rose's parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Van Kleeck, returning to their home in Poughkeepsie Monday.

Elmer Schoonmaker, broom maker, is very busy for the last week or so.

The high school girls and boys will have to set their alarm clocks a half hour earlier if they want to get the bus as it leaves about twenty minutes earlier than it did formerly.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, March 6.—Mr. and Mrs. William Firth were called to this village from their home in Phillipsburgh, N. J., on account of the death of the latter's father, Mr. Gross. Mr. Gross was one of the first to come to the home when it was opened a few years ago and has remained here ever since. He was 82 years old and well liked among the community.

L. R. Conner attended the Triennial meeting of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, of which he is general chairman, held at Hancock, N. Y., on Sunday, March 2nd.

It is rumored that Earl Jones will attend the auto show this week and bring home a new auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keator, who have been ill for a week or so, are able to be out.

Miss Ethel Donnestad of Kingston spent Sunday at her home here.

A. J. Keator, who has been spending several weeks in Florida, has returned home and resumed his duties in the Kingston Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruth, who just moved in this village from New York a few months ago, left by moving van Saturday for New York again. People here regret to lose them. They are well liked in this village. Their son, Dick, will remain in the vicinity selling Chevrolet and boarding at Kingston.

Mrs. Deborah Rhinehart of Binnewater spent the week end with Mrs. L. R. Conner here.

James Snyder, who has been laid up with a slight infection on the eye, is able to be out again.

Miss Amy Donnestad of Kingston spent Thursday at her home here.

Peerless Shows Snappy Lines

The Van Motor Company is showing a nifty closed job Marmon. Occupying the same space which Marmon occupied last year at the extreme end of the first aisle, this car attracts the attention of the show visitors by its sturdy, substantial appearance. Studebaker is also shown in three types and a closed model of the Peerless. The new Peerless has departed from the usual Peerless lines of a few years ago and presents one of the snappiest models at the show this year.

A St. Patrick's Day Minstrel

During the past few weeks the young men and women of St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, have been diligently rehearsing for their coming minstrel on March 15. The annual shows put on by these young people have always proved most entertaining, but it is expected that the coming one will eclipse all former efforts. After the show dancing will take place. For the accommodation of Kingston friends, a bus will leave the Central Post Office at 7:30 that evening. The program follows:

Young ladies, guests of a traveling minstrel troupe: The Misses Florence Pierce, Mary Morin, Marie Fay, Helen Campbell, Teresa Costello, Mary Mannion, Jennie Leonard and Lily Tiano

That Old Gang of Mine," Joseph Saccamano

When It's Nighttime in Italy," etc. William McNally

That's a Lot of Bunk," Peter McManus

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Popular Style for Stout Figures.

4617. The plait fullness and "V" neck line are new and attractive style features. In black satin or blue serge this design will make a serviceable day dress. It is also good for crepe weaves or wool rep. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 40 inch size requires 1 1/2 yards of 40 inch material. The width at the foot with plaits extended about 2 1/2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps, by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies and Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

America's First Post Office

Delivers into historic lore have ascertained that America's first post office was established in the house of Richard Fairbanks, in what is now Boston, on November 5, 1639, but strangely enough, this first post office, although not called by that name, was for the reception and distribution of foreign mail. It was not called a post office until 1760, when the man in charge was classically called "post-master."

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our thanks to our friends and neighbors and also to Fitzpatrick & Draper for the beautiful floral tribute and their kindness during the illness and death of our beloved husband and brother, MRS. ROSE TERWILLIGER, MRS. FRED SMITH, MRS. W. F. WRIGHT, CHARLES TERWILLIGER.

EVENING
FAIRY TALE

by Mary Graham Bonner

JACK AND SPELLING

Jack is a dog. He is a very clever dog, a very wise dog, a very beautiful dog.

That is almost enough for any dog, but still he would not be a natural dog if he didn't want affection, too.

And he receives a great deal of affection. Oh yes, Jack is dearly loved.

Then, too, he is very brave. Jack has risked his life to save others. His mistress is very proud of him, but Jack is not conceited, nor does he think he has ever done anything wonderful.

He thinks he has only done what is natural when he has saved lives. He had the opportunities. That is what he thinks.

Jack is a police dog—and when Jack was younger he belonged to a policeman, too.

It was then that he helped the policeman to stop a runaway and Jack was hurt then. The policeman thought that Jack had had quite enough hard and dangerous work in his life and that he should lead a more restful life.

It was at that time that Jack took up his life at the home of his dear present mistress—the one he hoped he would always have.

Now and again the mistress would go to the city and he would see his big policeman friend and there would be such joy.

The children around would see the dog greeting the policeman and they would see the policeman greeting the dog and the sight was quite a wonderful one.

But there was just one thing Jack couldn't do.

He couldn't spell. No, not a single word could he spell, nor did he know which words were which when people took them apart, as it were, and put them together letter by letter.

He couldn't do the other lessons the children did in school, but he didn't mind about that. It was spelling he wished he understood.

But his mistress took care that he didn't learn to spell.

That was something she didn't want him to know. He would never have to write or to read and so it would never be awkward for him if he couldn't spell. And there was one important reason why she didn't want him to learn.

Jack knew the meaning of practically every word that was used.

When anyone said it was dinner time Jack was all excited.

When any one said it was time

Jack is Dearly Loved.

for a walk, or that, maybe, a walk would be nice, Jack was up and ready!

When anyone said that it would be nice to sit before the fire as it was still quite chilly Jack went and sat before the fireplace and looked around to see who was going to strike the match.

Or when some one said that it would be well to build the fire Jack was ready to go out to the woodhouse and to help bring in some wood.

When anyone said that a bone would be nice—well, Jack thought so too, and barked a "Yes, thank you."

A lady came to see Jack's mistress one day, and after she had been there for a while she said:

"Dear me, I didn't know it was getting so late. Mercy! I must hurry home for dinner."

But she didn't get any further. Jack had picked up his ears.

"Don't say the word," Jack's mistress cried, "for it's not time for dinner yet (and she spelled the word out) and Jack will get so excited and will hardly be able to wait if he hears the word."

"I have to spell everything I don't want him to understand."

And the lady looked at Jack and saw that he looked a little sad that the talk was going to be partly in spelling, and he felt a little bit hurt that they spelt before him. Who wants to have people spell words before them?

Well, for one, there is the dog, Jack!

Obedient to a Fault.

"Now, John," said his mother, "if any one asked you what part of the chicken you want, what would you say?"

"I don't know."

"You must say you want the piece that no one else wants."

So John always remembered that, and one night John was asked out for dinner and as the host had fried chicken, he asked John which part of the chicken he would take.

"I will take some of the feathers."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is a happy circumstance that his temper, but he is more excellent who can control his temper to any circumstances.—Hume.

SIMPLE GOOD THINGS

The young green onions when cooked make a most delicious dish.

Buttered Green Onions.

—Cook two bunches of the tender green onions in boiling water until tender, then drain. Lay the onions on buttered toast, pour over each serving a tablespoonful of melted butter and serve very hot. A thick cream sauce may be used if desired.

Apple Frappe With Maple Sauce.

Peel without coring or paring eight good-flavored apples. Sift through a sieve, pressing out all the part next the skin where the finest flavor lies. Add one and one-half cupsful of sugar, a few cloves, stir until the mixture boils. Cool and freeze. Serve in sherbet glasses garnished with red jelly. Serve with:

Hot Maple Sauce.—Cook together two cupsful of maple syrup with one cupful of cream until a soft ball stage is reached. Remove from the fire, set in a pan in hot water and dip a spoon into the top of each glass of frappe.

Maple Tapioca.—Soak one cupful of pearl tapioca over night in cold water and cook in a double boiler in a quart of milk until soft. Remove from the fire and let cool. Stir in three cupsful of milk and stir into a thick cream. Add to the cream a cupful of sugar and a cupful of vanilla. Stir until the mixture is thick and serve with the maple sauce.

GLENFORD.

Glenford, March 6.—Communion service was observed in the M. E. Church at Glenford on Sunday, March 2.

All are glad to see the increase in attendance at the church service.

Preaching by the pastor, the Rev. K. M. Reynolds every Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

A pork roast supper will be served in the hall March 12, beginning at 7 p. m.

Now that March is here people expect sap weather. People having maple orchards are looking after the "sweet juice". Maple sugar and syrup are very valuable products of the farm nowadays.

An interesting lecture on poultry raising was given in the M. E. hall recently by Raymond DuBois. It is very much to be regretted that owing to an accident, Mr. DuBois was late in arriving and many people had gone away, thinking he would not come.

Those who did hear him were pleased. One man here has been shipping eggs by parcel post to New York city all winter getting the high price for nice white eggs.

The efficient mail carrier, Aaron Bonestell, may be seen almost every morning taking large bags of parcel post mail to and from the R. R. mail post.

Yes, we have Zucca's Singing Orchestra Monday evening, March 10, at Pythian Hall.—Advertisement.

The New ESSEX

Built by Hudson

A SIX

Gives "Ideal" Transportation

Take a 30 minute ride to learn the facts. It will convince you that "ideal transportation" in terms of economy, performance and lasting reliability, is fully realized in this low priced car.

The new Essex is built by Hudson and shares its famous design advantages. That not only means a motor design that has long held a foremost place among "Sixes", but the same type of clutch, transmission and rear axle which Hudson has proved in years of service.

And the first-cost economy is carried out in every way that applies to transportation—low fuel and oil consumption; great tire mileage; and astonishingly low prices on replacement parts.

The materials used and the way it is built insure lasting enjoyment of those unusual qualities which delight you on your first ride.

A 30 Minute Ride
Will Win You

Essex closed car comforts now cost $170 less than ever before.

Consistory May Be Postponed

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, March 7.—The secret consistory at which Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, of New York and Archbishop George W. Mundelein, of Chicago, will be created cardinals, may be postponed from March 24 until April, it was learned at the Vatican today.
Although the two American prelates are to sail from New York tomorrow, Vatican officials feared that they would not arrive here in time if the consistory were held March 24, as originally planned.
It is understood the ceremony will be an all-American consistory, the two American archbishops being the only two prelates to get the red hat of the cardinalate.
It is certain that no papal nuncios will be appointed to represent the Vatican abroad.

Aeronauts Don't Land to Receive Messages

The British air service in Mesopotamia has perfected a scheme for delivering written messages to planes without the necessity of their landing and stopping to pick up the documents.

A line is stretched between two poles about six feet high and perhaps twenty feet apart. To this line the message is tied. By spreading large pieces of cloth on the ground in a pre-arranged pattern the pilot of the aircraft is signalled that there is a message for him; the arrangement of the cloth also indicates in what direction he must fly to cross the line between the poles at right angles. If more than one plane is up, the cloth again tells which plane is to receive the message, says the New York World.

The selected plane swoops low over the poles and the pilot dangles a line to the end of which is attached a book. This engages the line to which the message is tied, and the message and all are dragged into the air. The pilot reels in his catch as the plane speeds away. If the message is to be delivered the plane simply dives to the point of delivery and drops the message.

The pilots have become very expert at picking up and dropping messages in this fashion.

About Time Maggie Began to Suspect

Sandy and his lass had been sitting together about half an hour in silence, "Maggie," he said at length, "wasn't I here on the Sawbath night?"
"Aye, Sandy, I daur say you were."
"An' wasn't I here on Monday night?"
"Aye, so ye were."
"An' I was here on Tuesday night, an' Wednesday night, an' Thursday night an' Friday night?"
"Aye, I'm thinking that's so."
"An' this is Saturday night, an' I'm here again?"
"Well, I'm sure ye're very welcome." Sandy (desperately)—"Maggie, woman! I've ye no begin to suspect something?"—The Continuum.

Cow of Stone Age Uncarved in West

Dredgers working in a western river recently have uncovered what is believed to be the skull of a broad-faced cow which had been buried for at least 50,000 years below the bottom of the stream, says Popular Mechanics. The animal to which the fossil belonged, scientists say, was the forerunner of the buffalo, the cow and others of the bovine family. Horns measuring 20 inches around their base still were attached to the specimen.

Fly 100 Miles an Hour

Four miles in three minutes is the estimated speed of the carrier pigeons, which many bird students believe is the most consistently fast flier among birds. In a recent test at Ghent these pigeons made 100 miles an hour. However, gods and goddesses have been known to fly to feeding grounds 12,000 miles away in a single flight. The osprey, or sea hawk, has almost unbelievable speed in swooping down upon its prey.

She Was Experienced

The thing happened on the lady of the house. On her front doorstep, and, winning in the appropriate manner, he exclaimed:
"It's needless to ask you the question, madam; you know what I want."
The lady—Yes, I know what you want badly, but I've only one cake of soap in the house and the servant is using that.—London Answer.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germs.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized in the medical fraternity as the most effective healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the action of the creosote is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. It is returned if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist, Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

INSTALL WORLD'S BIGGEST DYNAMO

70,000 Times as Powerful as First One Built.

This electric age is the result perhaps more than anything else of the dynamo. The history of the development of the dynamo is one of the most interesting of the romances in the field of science. Not the least of the extraordinary features associated with its development is the long sleep which followed the discovery by Faraday, England's foremost man of science in his time, of a principle not theretofore recognized, says the New York World.

In 1831 Michael Faraday, an Englishman, a pupil of Sir Humphrey Davy, while working in his laboratory engaged in experimental research, of a sudden discovered the law by means of which electricity could be created by mechanical process. Faraday made a report of his discovery and that report, of course, excited discussion, yet it was looked upon merely as an interesting discovery of a theretofore unsuspected natural law.

Future Not Foreseen.

No one at that time could see the wonderful growth in store for Faraday's little generator, or dynamo as it was then called. It was but 12 inches in diameter, most insignificant today when compared with the first of three gigantic generators just installed at the Niagara Falls power plant. Instead of 12 inches in diameter, this new Titan of Niagara has a rotor, or revolving unit, 21 feet in diameter.

Where Faraday's generator perhaps had a pull of but a fraction of one horse power, this new machine, designed and built by the General Electric company, will develop 70,000 horse power, or electricity, which, if developed through the use of coal, would require 70,000 tons annually.

Faraday's discovery slept about 30 years, although there appears to have been some crude and unsatisfactory attempts to make commercial use of it. Faraday himself made no attempt of that kind. He was purely and exclusively a man of research and science.

To Italy belongs the honor of having made such use of Faraday's discovery as to demonstrate the availability of it for creating electric energy by mechanical means. Professor Pacinotti, of one of the Italian universities, invented a machine by means of which the law that was discovered by Faraday was made commercially available.

Is Easily Obtained.

To the popular mind it is a problem to define the modern dynamo, or generator. The underlying principle is the rapid continuous change in the relative position of a lot of wires of copper and invisible magnetic lines of force. The existence of these lines of force was discovered by Faraday. The rapid whirling of the copper wires across the magnetic lines of force may be produced by a steam engine, by water power, or by any other means of effecting mechanical work.

In the dynamo electric energy is easily obtained by mechanical means. The mechanical means are represented by the rapid whirling of copper wires which are bound around a large tube or disc, in such manner as to bring the wires within the lines of the magnetism. It is necessary to set up a magnet the size of which increases proportionately with the increase in the amount of electric energy desired. For the largest of dynamos a very large magnet is essential.

Faraday never discovered what that mystic force which we call magnetism really is. But for that matter, as Doctor Steinmetz has often said, it can also be said of electricity itself that, while the world now understands some of the manifestations of electric energy and is able to manufacture that energy, no one has ever authoritatively stated what electricity really is.

All we know is, that Faraday's discovery of the law has made it possible to create electric energy in any amount through the operation of mechanical means. The mechanical means are themselves obtained either through the burning of coal, whereby a steam-driven engine whirled the copper wires, or by means of water power, as at the Niagara Falls electric plant.

Adequate Supply for Years.

The physical conditions existing at Niagara Falls are not duplicated elsewhere in the world. The immense drainage basin of the Great Lakes contributes an almost uniform outflow of water of such magnitude that the question of adequate supply is not one which need be considered for many years to come.

This continuous flow of over 200,000 cubic feet a second, finds its outlet through the Niagara river, which falls through a total height of 336 feet between Lakes Erie and Ontario. Of this 336 feet, 165 feet is concentrated in the cataract itself and another 55 feet is in the rapids immediately above, so that within a distance of one mile there is available a total head of 220 feet; or, combining the 94 feet of drop in the lower rapids with that above, there exists a head of 314 feet which may be developed within about five miles, distance being measured on the American side of the river.

This flow of water and the natural head available provide a source of power for over 6,000,000 horse power which, under ordinary conditions, one might expect would be used to the full for industrial purposes.

One factor alone has prevented the perfect working of economic law in this respect, and that factor is the value of the cataract and rapids from the scenic standpoint. That this value is a real one, no thoughtful person will deny. "Man cannot live by bread alone," and who can doubt that God who, in His infinite wisdom, gave us Niagara, intended it to minister to the spirit as well as to the body of mankind?

It is just beginning to be recognized that the division must ultimately be made at that point where the sum total of human benefit shall be a maximum. And when that point is finally determined, the portion of the energy which is found not necessary to maintain the spiritual values will undoubtedly be made available for industrial purposes.

Use Niagara Power.

As early as 1723, near 200 years ago, a primitive sawmill made first use of Niagara power, and 100 years ago small waterwheels were used in mills along the upper rapids on the shore and small island of the American channel.

The beginning of the existing development may be placed as far back as 1852, when construction of a hydraulic canal was begun, extending from a point at the head of the rapids above the falls, now known as Port Day, to the edge of the gorge a mile below.

In 1872, however, an installation of 15 horse power under 25-foot head was made for driving a grist mill.

It was not until 1880 that the first hydro-electric unit was installed at Niagara Falls. This comprised a waterwheel and brush dynamo and the electricity generated was used for illuminating fountains in the city's parks by means of two arc lamps. Excursions were run from various parts of the country to see the new wonder.

The second hydro-electric development and first commercial installation was made in 1885 on Bath Island. The generator of this unit with a capacity of 36 amperes at 110 volts was used for lighting a mill on the island. As soon as these early installations had demonstrated the possibilities of electrical power the real hydro-electric development began. This was in 1891, and there has been a gradual growth since that time.

A treaty between the United States and Canada limits the amount of water to be taken from Niagara falls for commercial purposes to 21 per cent of the total. This is now being utilized, 10 per cent on the American side and 11 per cent on the Canadian.

The demand for electricity has steadily increased, and to meet this, since no more water can be used, engineers began work on plans to use more efficiently the present water supply. Thus the idea for larger generators culminating in the world's largest machine recently installed.

More to Be Installed.

This new 70,000 horse power hydro-electric unit uses 3,980 cubic feet of water a second with an efficiency of at least 93 per cent. It does not increase the diversion of water in any way, but does materially increase the efficiency of conversion into power. It uses the same amount of water formerly used by seven 5,000 horse power units, and delivers energy equivalent to the output of 14 such units.

Two more units of the same size are being built and will be in use before the close of the year. This will add 140,000 horse power to the output of the Niagara plant without the use of any additional water, making a total output of 635,400 horse power generated by the American company, a record for hydro-electric systems in this country.

If this same amount of electricity were generated by steam it would require about 7,000,000 tons of coal a year.

The turbine of this 70,000 horse power unit is the highest power capacity water wheel ever built. It is a product of the I. P. Morris division of the Cramp Ship and Engine Building company of Philadelphia.

The water wheel is a single-piece steel casting weighing 105,000 pounds. The turbine casting and control valve required 32 carloads of parts. The turbine converts the power of the falling water into mechanical energy, which is transmitted by means of the 32-inch shaft to the generator set directly above.

The gigantic generator establishes a new high mark in design and construction of electrical equipment. The stator of the generator weighs 228 tons. The rotor with its 28 eight-pole poles weighs 389 tons. The revolving elements, consisting of rotor, shaft and runner, total approximately 500 tons and are suspended from the top of the unit by a Kingsbury thrust bearing.

One hundred and ten cars were required to transport the machinery and equipment composing this 70,000 horse power unit.

New Pressure Tunnel

The three new hydro-electric units will receive their supply of water through a new hydraulic pressure tunnel. The big tube, measuring 82 feet in diameter and 4,800 feet in length, carries the water from the head of the rapids above the falls under the city of Niagara Falls to the edge of the high cliffs below the falls.

It was excavated through solid rock and the spoil removed would fill a train of gondolas reaching from Buffalo to Utica. The tunnel discharges into a great forebay, from which the water is conducted to the turbines by means of three 21-foot slope tunnel penstocks cut through the limestone cliff.

Foolish man, he merely hollers
When he's lost a hundred dollars!

Buy the Car You Need

At our Used Car Sale this week Van Motor Co. Used Car Dept., 521-523 Broadway.—Advertisement.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

that EVERYBODY'S car is a Used Car? Just as soon as a car is licensed and driven around the block it is so classified.

Most of the cars you have admired—those you have seen parked throughout the streets or passed on the Highway—are Used Cars.

Do you realize that we may have here waiting for you the very car you have seen and admired?

While the cars we are offering during our sale are classified as Used Cars nevertheless the tangible value is there; but human nature EXPECTS and generally receives a certain discount in price because these cars have seen service, and we are giving you these discounts.

Come in and give our stock careful inspection, and you may become the happy owner of a motor car before you leave our establishment.

The Sale will close Saturday night. Therefore, we would urge you to take advantage of our reduced prices.

For your convenience we are open evenings. Easy terms will be arranged if so desired.

The AMERICAN LEGION

CHECK UP ON CRIME BY ALIENS IN U. S.

Crime by aliens in the United States is believed of sufficient percentage to have considerable influence for further restriction of immigration. This is the contention of the Americanism commission of the American Legion, which will use the results of a survey of such crime in substantiating the Legion's plea that all immigration be suspended over a fixed period of years.

"Illicit traffic in drugs in the United States is directly traceable to aliens in the nation," Garland W. Powell, director of the Americanism commission of the American Legion has declared. "The Legion does not impute that all crime in the nation is committed by aliens, but many law violations can be laid at the doors of those who disregard our laws, and who do not pay allegiance to the nation in which they live."

In preparing for a survey of all courts, prison and penal institutions, requests have gone out for the number of cases pending against aliens for robbery, murder, violations of the prohibition and narcotic acts and other crimes as compared with such cases against Americans. Similar information is sought from prison authorities and heads of penal institutions.

To Probe Neglect of Veterans in Hospital

An investigation of reports of neglect of war veterans at the hospital and vocational training school maintained by the government at Perryville, Md., has been undertaken by officials of the American Legion.

Col. D. John Marker, department commander of the Legion in that state, Major Warren S. Lloyd, department adjutant and Dr. Arthur P. Herring, commissioner of mental hygiene, made personal visits to the hospital in this connection.

Four veterans in the tailoring school of the institution charged that the equipment for proper instructions in that trade was lacking and that regulations for such equipment and material had not been honored. The veterans also charged that necessary text books were not supplied.

This hospital figured in the recent senatorial investigation of the veterans bureau, under Director Charles R. Forbes. It was declared by certain witnesses that $3,000,000 worth of supplies were salvaged and sold to a firm in Boston for $600,000.

Tattered Flag Prized by Canton, China, Men

During the war a Chinese soldier, Sam Soo-Hoo, lost his life while serving with the American army in France. Prior to burial the body was wrapped in an American flag, but some of his countrymen removed the flag and placed it over his grave, where it flew from a bamboo pole until it became tattered.

When the body was sent back to Tai-Shan, his native home, an American Legion delegation in France sent what remained of the flag to his relatives. The Legion then assisted the widow in obtaining the claims on the government.

In token of the appreciation, the family of the man gave to Canton, China, post of the Legion the tattered emblem which had waved above the grave in France. This is one of the prized relics of the post.

Taint of Charity Is to Be Thing of Past

The taint of charity will be removed from veterans' relief in Chicopee, Mass., if members of the American Legion have their way about it.

Administration of a fund for relief of needy veterans has long been under direction of charity workers employed by the city council. If a veteran applied for aid, his name went on record as receiving charity which is said to have kept many a former soldier from applying to the fund, founded primarily to help the former service man along until he became settled.

In a special resolution sent to the city council the post asked that disbursement of this fund be in the hands of a veteran familiar with the men's cases and that such relief no longer be considered as an act of charity.

Two Wonderful Things

The two most wonderful things in America are New York and the Grand canyon, in the opinion of Vicente Blasco Ibañez, Spanish author. He was thrilled when he saw the towering skyscrapers of lower Manhattan lighted in the early evening.

FILM SERVICE GETS GENEROUS APPROVAL

Motion picture producers who have been making pictures that would appeal to the "thirteen-year-old" intelligence of the average motion picture audience are beginning to discover that motion picture goers are interested in something besides flappers, custard pies, and triangles, according to Earle A. Meyer, director of the American Legion Film service.

Meyer believes that the producer is blamable for the accepted "thirteen-year-old" intelligence of the "movie."

audience and that the producer to a certain degree can control the class of his audience by the type of picture he produces.

Two years ago the American Legion began a campaign for cleaner and more truly American films. The campaign has been conducted by the Legion's film service under the direction of Meyer. As a part of the campaign the Legion has produced several pictures for exhibition in theaters throughout the country under the auspices of the 11,000 local Legion posts. These pictures have been educational, historical and entertaining, and the enthusiasm with which they have been received, according to Meyer, is evidence a plenty that the people of America want more wholesome films.

What Soldiers Will Do With U. S. Bonus

"What the soldiers will do with this bonus after they get it seems to be an idle question. Will they spend it carelessly buying expensive automobiles? Five hundred thousand questionnaires have been sent out asking the men if they prefer money, farms, homes or insurance rights. The answers show that two-thirds of the veterans asked for farms, homes or insurance rights. If the Legion men were big enough to fight for the United States, they are big enough to do what is right."

This was the answer of National Vice Commander William B. Henley of the American Legion to charges that moneys received from adjusted compensation would be wasted. His statement was made before women's clubs at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Says American Legion Becomes Civic Asset

Oscar G. Hoose, retiring commander of Illinois' largest post of the American Legion in Bloomington, said that the American Legion may safely be said to have become a civic asset.

"Its purposes and its accomplishments have won for it an enviable position in the eyes of the community," he said. "Its policy of fair dealing, its willingness to co-operate, its determination to be of service in countless ways, have established for it a position from which it must not recede."

Must Not Use Flag to Cover Back of Canine

The American flag is never to be used as a covering for a dog, at least not in Birmingham, Ala.

John Morald, a "globe trotter" and his dog passed through Birmingham recently on their way to New Orleans. Around the dog's back Morald had wrapped the Stars and Stripes.

An American Legion post officer saw the dog and soon after Morald was in police court explaining. At a night in jail he was released on a promise to the judge that he would not again use the flag in this manner.

Scholarships for Veterans

A scholarship for former World war service men has been established at the Lincoln Memorial university, Cumberland Gap, Tennessee, by the Lincoln post of the American Legion in Washington. This scholarship, representing an endowment of $1,200 is expressly provided for the many thousands of uneducated people of the Appalachian mountain range, who by reason of distances have enjoyed few educational advantages.

Fund to Go to Post

A special fund of $4,000, raised by the Douglas County (Kansas) Red Cross during the war will be turned over to the Douglas Legion post, according to an announcement by Red Cross officials. The fund was raised to help dependent families of service men, but since the end of the war it has not been needed.

Overland Is Doubling Output

With the announcement of a total production of 22,048 cars, amounting to a net volume of $17,638,400, during the month of January, Willys-Overland has made a gratifying start towards the realization of its goal of 300,000 Willys-Knights and Over-lands to be produced during 1924.

This record is more than twice as great as the production mark of a year ago, which saw Willys-Overland started for its peak year of more than 200,000 cars.

Of the 22,048 cars produced during last January, 15,500 were Overlands and 6,500 were Willys-Knights, a new record for Willys-Knights production.

The highest single day's production for the month was 1,032 cars, not far behind the topmost daily mark of last summer. Since then this pace has been held steadily and it is anticipated that the average daily output during February will approximate January's high point. A work force of 11,000 is now being maintained at the factory, with additions being made constantly.

Sales Reports Equally Optimistic.

Reports of retail sales are very encouraging according to Willys-Overland officials, having doubled in January those of a year ago. The demand has been so heavy and constant, throughout the cold weather period that the number of cars stored by dealers for the spring rush is much less than was expected.

No better indication of the healthy sales conditions can be gained than an analysis of automobile show sales records. Sales records during the New York Show displayed a 150 per cent increase over a year ago. Buffalo's sales curve also showed a sharp upward trend. Milwaukee, despite zero weather, set a new peak for retail business. Elmira, N. Y., a city of 35,000 inhabitants, purchased 51
Overlands and Willys-Knights during its show week.

Once again Chicago took the lead in Willys-Overland retail sales, reporting 541 sales during its show.
This record was followed one week later by Toledo, Ohio, where 322
Overlands and Willys-Knights were sold during its own show week.

This brisk buying, climaxing the steady interest throughout the country all during the cold weather, has made it necessary for Willys-Overland to take energetic steps to spread up production plans for the next few months.

SPECIAL TRAIN SCHEDULE TO KIWANIS CONVENTION

The itinerary for Kiwanis Club members from this section who plan to attend the National Kiwanis Convention in Denver in June has been received by the local club officials. It shows that the special train will leave the Grand Central Terminal in New York city at 8:15 a. m. June 13 and Kingston members may board it at Hudson at 11:31 a. m. or at Albany at 12:20 p. m. The train will reach Denver at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, June 15.

The convention will hold sessions
Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and the return trip will be begun at 12 p. m. Thursday, June 19.
Friday, the 20th, will be spent sightseeing at Colorado Springs, the trip east being resumed at 9:30 p. m. and the train will arrive at Rhinecliff at 3:47 p. m. Monday, June 23.

Monday, March 17th. Supper served from 7:00 until all are served. Entertaining for the young people is being planned. The proceeds will go for the church.

Mrs. Clarence Donahue called on her sister, Mrs. E. Christiana, who is ill at this writing.

A number of men attended the auction at New Paltz Monday.
John Bartinger and son, Lester, made a business trip to Kingston
Tuesday last.

LAKE HILL.

Lake Hill, March 6.—On Friday evening, February 29th, a delightful gathering of about sixty people was held at the home of W. C. Wilbur, on the occasion being a leap year dance.
Every other set the ladies had to select their partners. Everybody reported a fine time and wished leap year came every four weeks instead of every four years.

If She Had Known

Another example of queer English has come to our attention. During a New York court inquiry into a family quarrel the wife stood up, raised her arms and cried: "Oh, if I had known when I was sweet sixteen already all that I know now yet!"—Boston Transcript.

The 1924 FRANKLIN

Exclusive Features to Look For at the Show

The car that Franklin brings to the Show this year has already proved in owners' hands that it is the greatest we ever built. Examine it there for the reasons—the fine quality of its materials and workmanship, its high mechanical development.

A number of distinctive features are worth looking at:
the pressure air-cooling system, the fuel transformer, the long-sought vibration-absorber, the case-hardened crank-shaft, the electric primer, the rotary air-cleaner.

You will likewise be interested to find out why the Franklin transmission brake is the safest, longest-lived, and easiest to care for.

Those construction details make this the first car to be free from every evidence of periodic engine vibration.
They guarantee the permanence of its new motor smoothness and quietness. And they eliminate all the usual winter motoring troubles.

Learn about the rest of Franklin performance—comfort, easy handling, road ability—from the car in action.

Newcombe Tanks at Kingston Point to Have That Capacity and More if Fourth Tank Is Erected.

Work on the three tanks to be erected for the Newcombe Oil Company at Kingston Point is progressing favorably. The largest tank will be 60 feet in diameter, 35 feet in height and have a holding capacity of 15,000 barrels of oil. The second largest will be 50 feet in diameter, 35 feet in height and a holding capacity of 12,000 barrels of oil. The third tank will be the same height as the others and will be 40 feet in diameter with a holding capacity of 9,000 barrels of oil. There is talk of a fourth tank being built.

HIGH WOODS.

High Woods, March 6.—S. V. York's family are recovering from the grip. He is still confined to the house.

Willard Braby of Kingston spent the week end with his parents here. Mrs. Morgan and children moved from the house of her mother, Mrs. E. W. Phillips, to Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield R. Snyder and son, Kenneth, and Mary J. Carle spent Thursday evening at Lewis E. Snyder's in honor of his son's, Leroy W., birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Short and children were guests of her uncle, Lewis York, Sunday.

Robert Denhardt of Kingston spent the week end at Lewis E. Snyder's.

Willing Workers will hold monthly meeting March 13, in church hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Longendyke of Saugerties were callers at Nathan Carle's Saturday afternoon. All are glad that Mrs. Nathan Carle, who was seriously ill with pneumonia, is recovering.

The Rev. C. H. Polhemus of Port Jervis filled our pulpit Sunday afternoon. He urged loyalty to Christ's Church from the text, "Jesus Christ, the Same Yesterday, Today and Forever." Heb. 13:8. The Lord's Supper was commemorated. Miss Anna Herrick was received into membership by letter from the Woodstock Lutheran Church.

The Rev. Polhemus and Winfield Braby were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis York.

Ernest R. Paen will occupy our pulpit March 9, at 2 p. m.

Mary J. Carle spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. Anna C. Snyder, and daughter, Dora.

Rural Reformed Church News.

Bloomington.—The services in the Reformed Church on Sunday, March 9th, are to be conducted by the Rev. Edwin Hunt of Kingston. On the 16th the newly elected elders and deacons will be ordained and installed.

Rosendale.—Owing to the inability of the Rev. Mr. Mead to occupy the pulpit on next Sunday, the services will be conducted by the Rev. J. V. Wemple of Saugerties. Services: Sunday school at 10:00 and preaching at 10:45 o'clock. On March 16 newly chosen elders and deacons are to be inducted into office.

Woodstock and West Hurley.—Service preparatory to the Communion on Saturday afternoon, March 8, at 2:30 o'clock, followed by Consistory meeting. Candidates for membership may present themselves at this Consistory meeting. On Sunday at 11:00 at Woodstock, and at 2:30 o'clock, at West Hurley, the Quarterly Communion of the Holy Supper is to be commemorated. Preaching at 7:30 p. m. at Woodstock. The Rev. J. B. Stekette is to conduct these services.

SAMSONVILLE.

Samsonville, March 6.—All were sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. F. N. Davis for a few days this week. Miss Eva Davis of Kingston visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Davis, over the week end.

Mrs. John Alexander visited Mrs. Devler on Saturday and spent Saturday night with her aunt, Mrs. Elijah Shurtler.

Miss Maude Shurtler is improving. All hope to see her out soon.

Church service on March 9 at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Agnes Beesmer is in her 35th year and is still able to do washing and is knitting a pair of fringe gloves. She makes a business of knitting, and preparing her yarn from the wool, carding and spinning, and coloring, and is happy in being able to work.

Rachel Barringer is not very well this winter.

FOUND RADIO VERY USEFUL

By LILLIAN M. DELANEY

(Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

BETTY BROWN hurried up the two flights of stairs to her pretty third-floor apartment, tumbled her numerous packages on the hall-seat while she nervously fumbled for her key, and opened the door. It was just striking six, and George would soon be home—that is, if something relative to the hateful old radio didn't detain him.

It was perfectly disgusting, every member of the bridge club this afternoon had voiced the same sentiment, and had had so much to say that the meeting had been longer than usual.

It was nothing but "Sh! Sh!" all evening long, if one dared to speak. To be sure, George did get another set of ear-phones, but just as soon as she "sat in" he would start experimenting to get a loud spot, and all she could ever hear was a stutter. And now he was buying a tube set—wasting more money; and nearly every evening he was late for dinner because he had to shop for various needed parts.

Gathering up her bundles, she entered the cozy living room, and switched on the light. A white paper, conspicuously placed on the desk near the hated radio set, caught her eye, and she sat down before the desk to read:

"Dear Letty: I came home this afternoon for the new set, but you had gone to the club. Will be a little late, as Jim Walton is going to test out my set for me. Yours for Cuba or London. GEORGE."

A sigh, half of relief, at the added moments she would have for preparing dinner, and half of disgust at this further proof of her husband's complete absorption in radio, rose to her lips, but was quickly suppressed, and her heart skipped a beat, for, at the opposite side of the room, beneath the folds of the portieres, a pair of muddy shoes were plainly visible, and the bulk of a thick-set man was but poorly concealed in the silken folds where the intruder had hastily sought refuge.

For a moment a sickening dizziness possessed Letty, and she wanted to scream frantically, but she knew the Denismores in the flat were away, and it was doubtful if the Robinsons on the first floor would hear her.

Suddenly an inspiration came to her, and she quickly and calmly removed her hat. The radio! She would test it now, and see if it would prove useful for once, instead of the nuisance she had always supposed it to be. With fingers that scarcely trembled, though she plainly saw a dark eye furtively watching her from the folds of the portieres, she calmly adjusted the head-set, and made a pretense of tuning-in on the crystal.

She sat tense for nearly five minutes, mustering her courage, then in a voice surprisingly calm she said:

"If I were you, I'd come out from behind that portiere, Mr. Burglar. I've got a revolver leveled, but I don't want to use it unless I have to. I've just been listening in on the police reports from Marda, the Unseen Voice, and they've sent your description broadcast. If you do as I say, I'll help you to escape; if not, I'll shoot. Now, take your choice!"

With right arm leveled, she rose from her chair, the ear-phones which she had forgotten, dragging from her head and falling with a clatter that almost unnerved her completely. Simultaneously a rough-looking man of middle age stepped from his hiding place with arms upraised.

"Aw, can it, lady! I ain't done nothin'. This is me first attempt. They can't pin nothin' on me."

"Well, now, if you do as I say, I'll help you—not because I think you deserve it, but because I dislike the notoriety of being brought into court to testify against you. In the hall closet to your left is a hat and veil, skirt and coat, left by my former maid. If you put them on, you can probably pass unobserved from here to your own quarters, wherever they are. I think the clothes will fit you. No! Keep your hands up, please. I've still got you covered. Forward march!"

He shuffled to the hall, opened the door and entered the closet.

"The light is in the middle of the ceiling," directed Letty. "Pull the chain and light it." As he groped above his head for the ever-elusive light-chain, which in this case did not exist at all, Letty slammed the door, quickly turned the key in the lock, and her burglar was a prisoner in the long, narrow closet.

Calmly she phoned to police headquarters, then, on the arrival of the officers, she collapsed. Her husband, returning just as they were hustling their prisoner out of the apartment, found her white and trembling. "The prisoner was, indeed, a notorious character, with a prison record and several aliases, and had been long sought by the police."

"My darling girl, how did you ever think of such a clever scheme to trap him?" her husband cried in amazement when he had heard the story.

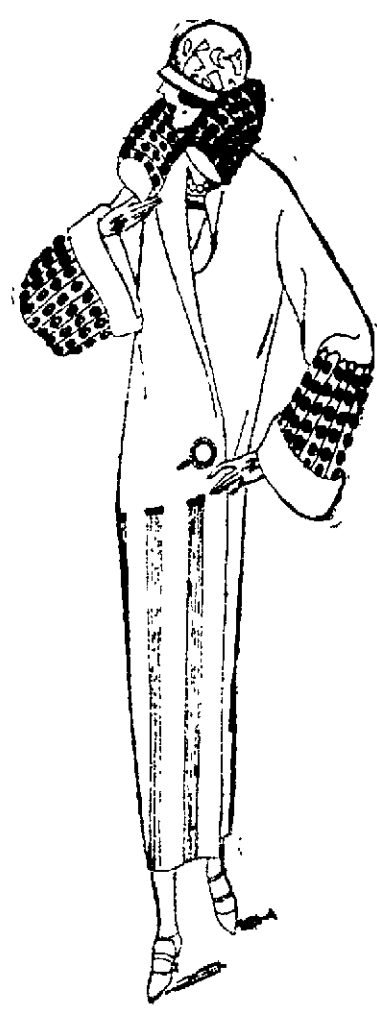

"Well, I just thought I'd see if radio couldn't be useful for once," Letty answered.

"But where did you get the revolver?" asked her husband.

"It wasn't a revolver," giggled Letty hysterically. "It was the big screw-driver. You left it on the desk after tinkering with that old set last night. And George, dear, I don't mind if you do spend hours with the new set, so long as you stay at home with me!"

It has the reliability and economy of maintenance and operation for which everyone knows Hudson. To these it adds a new degree of smoothness in performance that will surprise and delight even those who best know the past Hudsons.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krummled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. That is with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in those wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krummled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary bran, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

EQUINOCTIAL STORMS ONLY SUPERSTITION

U. S. Weather Bureau Says
Belief Is Mythical.

Washington.—The weather bureau at Washington has just dispelled several common superstitions concerning the weather. In both Europe and America there is an old belief that a severe storm—the so-called "equinoctial storm" or "equinoctial gale"—is due about the date of either equinox, that is, March 21 or September 22, or more particularly about the date of the autumnal or vernal equinox, says the New York Times.

"The fallacy of this idea consists in identifying any storm that occurs within a week or several weeks of the equinox as the equinoctial storm," says the bureau. "Statistics show that there is no maximum of storm frequency either in this country or in Europe close to the date of either equinox. Of course, in the long run storms do occur about these dates, just as they occur at all other times in the year. No reason why storms should be especially frequent around the equinoxes is known to meteorologists.

"In the United States the belief in the equinoctial storm as an event of regular occurrence has perhaps been fostered by the fact that West Indian hurricanes are most common in the late summer and early autumn.

Called Equinoctial Anyway.
Occasionally a severe storm of this character sweeps up our Atlantic seaboard, doing a great deal of damage and attracting general attention. If it happens anywhere near September 22 the event is sure to be heralded as 'the equinoctial storm.'

Commenting on the moon's influence on the weather, the bureau says: "Modern science is unable to find any evidence that the moon affects the weather to an appreciable extent, and unable to conceive of any reason why it should. The movements of the atmosphere that give us different kinds of weather all involve the expenditure of an immense amount of energy in the form of heat. Such energy comes to us from the sun, and its varying effects depend mainly upon the varying positions of the earth as it revolves around the sun and rotates on its axis. The moon has no heat of its own. It merely gives off into space that which it receives from the sun, and a small fraction of this reaches the earth. The amount of heat we receive from the moon has been measured with very delicate instruments. It is so exceedingly minute that whatever effect it may have on our atmosphere must be completely swamped and obliterated by the enormously greater effects of solar energy.

Dry and Wet Moon Myth.
"It is true that the pull of the moon and the sun upon the atmosphere produces a tide in the atmosphere much like a tide in the ocean. But this, too, has been measured and it is found to be insignificant compared with the alternate expanding and shrinking of the atmosphere due to heating by day and cooling by night—the 'heat tide,' so to speak. Hence it is of no practical interest.

"The belief in 'dry' and 'wet' moons, indicated by the position of the lunar crescent in the evening sky, and a host of other notions associating the moon with the weather, are merely idle superstitions. Moonlight is sometimes said to be conducive to frosts. The fact is that moonlight nights also are clear nights, and it is the absence of clouds, not the presence of the moon, that favors the occurrence of frosts by permitting a rapid loss of heat from the earth."

New Brazilian Law Safeguards Inventions

Rio de Janeiro.—A new law governing patents on inventions went into effect in Brazil recently. In the words of the minister of agriculture, commerce and industry, who proposed the change, it "will protect the public as well as the inventor."

Under the former law, patents were registered in each of the 21 Brazilian states and if the inventor failed to register his rights in any state he received no protection in that state. The new law requires one registration with the federal government.

The new law is expected to be of special service to foreign manufacturers.

Urged to Grow Flax

St. Paul, Minn.—Manufacturers of flax products of the United States appealed to agricultural educators of the Northwest in a conference here to urge farmers to grow more flax. It was agreed that flax has a place in the system of crop rotation and that the present good market for the product makes it a crop worth raising.

Convicts Give Jailer Gift on His Birthday

Prisoners in a jail rarely have much esteem for their jailer. It is different, however, at the county jail at Akron, O., where the prisoners presented Jailer C. G. Landue with a box of cigars as a birthday gift.
All the prisoners were permitted to gather around the jailer for a few minutes to congratulate him.

Meaning of Epiphany

The name "Epiphany" means manifestation and in the Christian church the feast of the Epiphany celebrates the visit of the magi or wise men to the infant Jesus at Bethlehem, and the manifestation of Christ as the savior of the world.

GERMANS ASK PRICE FOR DISEASE CURE

Want Colonies Back for Sleep Sickness Remedy.

Bremen.—Unconditional restoration of Germany's colonies and prewar rights is the price demanded by the German Colonial society for a new remedy for the prevention of sleeping sickness. The society expresses the belief that Germany in the remedy has a powerful political weapon in hand which places her in a position to force revocation of the colonial mandates executed under the Versailles treaty.

"Germany holds the key to central Africa in the remedy," says Doctor Zache, well known as a colonial expert. He expresses the belief that the remedy for sleeping sickness and tsetse fever is destined to convert central Africa into a prosperous, fertile country, inhabited by an industrious people.

"No colonies, no remedy," is the ultimatum of Edouard Achells, chairman of the Bremen section of the German Colonial society. He suspects that this stand may provoke the charge of inhumanity, but he reminds his critics of the allied "hunger blockade."

German colonial enthusiasts have demanded that the German government immediately protect the remedy against undue exploitation by the entente powers.

Says North Pole Has Nice Summer Climate

Seattle, Wash.—The airship Shenandoah, on the United States navy's expedition to the North pole next summer, will not find temperatures as low as those of this winter on the Atlantic seaboard. This is the belief of M. B. Summers, weather observer here, who established the government meteorological station at Point Barrow, where Alaska juts farthest north into the Arctic ocean.

Mr. Summers said that the coldest June day recorded at Point Barrow, which is 1,117 miles from the pole, was 12 degrees above zero and the coldest July day 26 above. The range last June was from 25 degrees above to 50 above.

The Shenandoah is more likely to encounter rain than snow, in the opinion of Mr. Summers.

"Toward the pole, it will naturally be colder than at Barrow," he said; "considerably so. If there is no large body of land between Alaska and the pole. If there is an Arctic continent or a large island, radiation from the sun's rays will make it warmer and more nearly the temperature of Barrow. But, in any event, I do not believe there will be zero temperatures at the pole in July or late June."

Is Brewing New Odor to Trap Boll Weevil

Dr. Frederick B. Power of the United States bureau of chemistry, the discoverer of chaulmoogra oil used in the treatment of leprosy, is at work on a unique method of checking the boll weevil of the Southern cornfields. Doctor Power is working on a new odor, which is to come from an extract of such delicious smell—to boll weevils—that the pests will follow its trail into a trap where they can be killed at leisure. He will probably succeed for he usually does what he sets out to do.

Malay Tribe Backward as Men of Stone Age

Heidelberg.—All races of the world have shown more or less predilection toward civilization, excepting a tribe of Malays in the wilds of one of the Celebes islands in the Dutch West Indies, asserts Professor Baseler, an anthropologist of Vienna, writing in a German medical journal.

Those natives are all left-handed, chew their food with a grinding motion of the jaw, like an ape, have long arms, live in trees and use their feet as well as their hands in nearly everything they attempt to do.

It was at the beginning of the Bronze age, avers the professor, that man began to use his right hand, a sure sign of civilization, but the natives of the Celebes are much further removed to-day from any social development than they were in the Stone age.

French More Healthy

Paris.—Medical records show that the general health of French girls is improving, due in large measure to their growing interest in and adoption of outdoor sports. Chlorosis, a form of anemia or blood deficiency, once prevalent, has almost entirely disappeared.

Coin Settles Dispute

A dispute in a separation suit over whether a man should pay his wife 35 or 40 shillings a week was settled in an English court by the lawyers tossing a coin. The woman's lawyer called "heads" and won.

A Matchless Investment! At every 1924 Motor Show held to date this new low-priced Six Special Sedan has won highest praise. Its coachwork parallels that of costly custom-made bodies. Rich upholstery dignifies the interior. Deep seat cushions are softened by heavily-coiled steel springs. Companioning these substantial details is the Nash-perfected motor—silent, flexible, and powerfully responsive. And—the demand has outstripped production, so orders will be filled in rotation.

Arbor and Bird Day Dates Set

Bird Day April 11 and Arbor Day April 25 in This Section—If Weather is Bad Schools May Postpone Exercises.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 7.—In a proclamation made public today, Dr. Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, designated the days to be observed as Arbor Day in various sections of the state.

The date for the observance of Bird Day has been fixed for April 11. The proclamation of Commissioner Graves follows:

In accordance with the provisions of law requiring the commissioner of education to designate the day to be observed as Arbor Day in this state, the following dates are hereby named for the various sections of the state:

First District—Long Island and the counties of southeastern New York, including Putnam and Dutchess—Friday, April 11.

Second District—All of the state not included in the first and third districts—Friday, April 18.

Third District—Northern New York, including the counties of Warren, Hamilton, Herkimer, Lewis, Jefferson, St. Lawrence, Franklin, Clinton and Essex, and the Catskill region in the counties of Ulster, Delaware and Greene—Friday, April 25.

While Arbor Day is perhaps more generally observed in the schools than elsewhere, yet it should be an occasion for arousing the interests of both adults and children in the value and usefulness of trees, shrubs and flowers. It is a time when our school children are privileged to lead, and it is hoped they will not overlook the opportunity. Many school grounds have been greatly improved by the planting of trees on Arbor Day; many more need such attention. Care should be taken, however, that the spirit of Arbor Day is observed throughout the year and that proper and needed attention is given to trees that have been planted on other Arbor Days. Every growing thing has a valuable lesson for every boy and girl; the teacher who points out such lessons on Arbor Day performs a service not only to the children under her care but also to the entire community.

It is suggested that, should weather conditions on the date designated in any section be unfavorable to permit carrying out any proposed program which includes tree planting, the exercises should be postponed for one week.

FRANK P. GRAVES,
Commissioner of Education.

NEW APPLIED DESIGN IN MODERN FROCKS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Interesting decorations for modern frocks include several varieties of handpainting. There is the raised, rather rugged looking variety done with pen and oils, and there are flat stencil effects as well as batiks and other dye and print processes which stimulate handwork. Not only dresses but hats, parasols, scarfs and practically everything worn is, or may be decorated in real or simulated painting. This offers another substitute for embroidery which many seem to believe has had the field too much to itself.

Once having this viewpoint, designers set about evolving other applied designs with the result that painting and applique appeared and conquered.

Applique, however, is the most popular form. Just now, applique is a craze and appears to be unrestricted in its use and often quite bizarre. Suede on crepe for sports wear, kid on Terry cloth, taffeta on metal cloth, silk or cotton crepe effects on dull surfaces and vice versa, each have something in its favor. This form of trimming offers an unlimited combination of color possibilities as well as interesting treatments in self-color. Light applique on dark; dark on light, velvet on chiffon and any number of eccentric arrangements present themselves for immediate and future wear, for day or evening, for coats, gowns or hats.

Italian Seed Is Not Satisfactory

Has Resulted in Poor Crop or Failure in Nearly Every Trial.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In October last, the United States Department of Agriculture called attention to the fact that the American red clover seed crop for 1923 appeared to be a short one and that therefore it was probable that considerable importations of foreign seed would be made. Present indications are that such importations will be heavy and from widely separated regions of production and therefore will include seed varying greatly in its adaptability to the climatic conditions of different portions of this country. This makes it important for the farmer to consider in the light of available information what kind of clover seed will be best for him to buy.

Points Well Settled.
While the department has not yet accumulated sufficient information through its tests in co-operation with the state experiment stations to make possible a determination of the adaptability of red clover from all the foreign sources, the following points are regarded as fairly well settled:

1. Italian red clover seed is unsuitable for any part of the clover area except the Pacific Northwest. Italian seed has resulted in a poor crop or a failure in nearly every trial made by the department, both in its own tests and those made in co-operation with the state experiment stations except in the Pacific Northwest. How much Italian seed will be imported is not known and, unfortunately, it is not possible to tell how much Italian grown seed will be offered under some other name.

2. In the Central Northwest where winters are severe and the snow cover usually light, northern grown red clover seed only should be used. If that is not to be had, other domestic seed may be used, except that from Oregon, which produces a less hardy plant.

3. So far as trials have been made, the Chilean, French, and northern European seed has given good results in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and in the North Atlantic coast states. However, where there is trouble from clover diseases, especially anthracnose, the foreign clovers are more likely to lose out on the second crop.

4. In Virginia and westward to Tennessee, where anthracnose is likely to be destructive, an effort should be made to develop local disease resistant strains. At present there is practically no such seed on the market.

Under these circumstances seed grown in the eastern United States as near as possible to where the seed is to be used, or Chilean, or French seed sown in August rather than in the spring may be expected to give fair results. On suitable land a good crop of hay may be commonly expected even though a second cutting may not be secured.

Use Only Domestic Seed.

7. It would probably be desirable for all American farmers to use only domestic red clover seed. That is at present impossible, however, and too great insistence on this might lead to an excessive increase in price together with the sale of much imported seed under domestic labels. Wherever imported seed of suitable kinds can be safely used, this course would seem advisable to follow rather than to reduce the acreage seeded because of difficulty in securing domestic seed.

Reasons for Failure to Obtain Stand of Clover

There may be several reasons for the failure to get a good stand of sweet clover. The soil may be slightly acid, the seed bed may have been too loose, the soil may not have been inoculated properly, and some of the seed may not have germinated yet. Sweet clover contains from 10 to 80 per cent of hard seed, which does not germinate until it has lain in the soil for considerable time. If scarified seed is used this particular trouble may be avoided.

It is not necessary to work the land again if the seed is to be sowed in February; it will be sufficiently covered by the alternate freezing and thawing. Sow about 15 pounds of seed to the acre.

Winter seedlings will often produce one good cutting the first year and two the second. The first cutting should not be made until the crown buds begin to appear on top of the roots. The cuttings of the second year should be made just before the bloom buds appear.

Planting Cherry Trees Is Best in the Spring

The northern section, such as northern Wisconsin, believes it is best to buy cherry trees in the fall, bury them in the ground and after the ground is frozen cover it with straw, leaves or similar material. Such trees when planted in the spring seem to do better than trees which come direct from the nursery in either the fall or spring.

Riffs Achieve New Success

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Gibraltar, March 7.—Riff tribesmen on the Moroccan battle front broke through the Spanish lines in the Tizazna-Midar sector capturing five convoys, 600 prisoners, said a dispatch from Tangier this afternoon.

Rebel airplanes brought down four Spanish planes.

Other rebel aircraft bombed Melilla. Spanish base of military operations, damaging the railway station and causing fires.

Changing the Flavors

and Odors of Milk

Undesirable flavors and odors in milk produced by feeding green alfalfa, green corn or turnips may be prevented by giving these feeds at the proper time or they may be reduced by thorough aeration of the milk, according to tests made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

It is shown that green alfalfa produces much more pronounced "off" flavors and odors than does green corn. Even when 25 pounds of green corn is fed one hour before milking the milk is only slightly tainted; if fed after milking nothing undesirable is noticeable. Feeding 30 pounds of green alfalfa one hour before milking, or as little as 15 pounds, produced objectionable flavors and odors.

In some regions root crops are used to supply succulence in the fall and winter, and among these crops turnips are one of the most commonly given. They have long been suspected of being responsible for off flavors and odors in milk. Feeding 15 pounds of turnips an hour before milking produced taints, and increasing the quantity fed to 30 pounds greatly intensified them. By feeding even the maximum quantity just after milking practically all the objectionable flavors and odors were avoided. As in the case of alfalfa, slight off flavors and odors were removed and strong ones reduced by aeration. The taints were more noticeable in the cream than in the milk.

Greenland Journalism

Is Rather Primitive

According to the captain of a British bark, journalism in Greenland is in rather a primitive stage. The captain makes frequent voyages to Greenland and is held to be an authority on conditions in that country. The one editor in Greenland is a Dane of the name of Moeller, who conducts the only newspaper and enjoys the singular distinction of printing the paper for the natives and teaching them to read it.

Mr. Moeller is not only the editor and proprietor, but he is the reporter, printer, distributor and business manager, and every two weeks he performs a long journey on skates to dispose of his journal. Originally it contained only a few crude illustrations, but gradually other matter was introduced, until now it contains articles on affairs of the day. This man actually taught his subscribers to read his paper, first introducing words, then sentences, and now articles on the topics of the time.

Flashlights Replacing Lanterns in South China

Electric flashlights, batteries and bulbs are finding an increasing demand in the markets of South China. Hongkong alone buying about 30,000 gold dollars worth annually. About 40 per cent of this trade has been secured by the United States Japanese exporters taking most of the balance. There are no flashlights or parts manufactured in the Hongkong district.

Most of the flashlights sold are for use on board vessels. A large number, however, are being purchased by the Chinese themselves, especially in the country districts. The electric flashlight is beginning to replace the old-fashioned lantern in South China.

Tiberius' Galleys

From beneath a layer of 10 feet of mud and rubbish, the conglomeration of 10 centuries, the floating palace of Emperor Tiberius will be brought to the surface.

The floating palace consisted of two galleys, which are certain to contain marvels of ancient art, according to the archeologists engaged by the municipality of Rome, says the Detroit News.

The palace lies at the bottom of Lake Nemi, near the Eternal City. Private individuals are taking charge of the expenses in order to save the government money.

Britain's Taxable Wealth

Taxation since the war has changed the distribution of individual holdings that make up Great Britain's taxable wealth. Landowners now possess more bonds or cash than previously, and fewer ancestral acres. The proportion of stocks and bonds in the largest estates is about twice as great as that in the smaller estates subject to inheritance tax. Every individual, rich or otherwise, seeks to adjust his holdings in such a way as to make the tax burden least oppressive.

First Load of Bananas

The first known importation of bananas into the United States was in the late sixties, when they were brought to New Orleans from the Bay Islands off Spanish Honduras. In 1870 a few bunches were brought to New York from Colon. Bananas were first imported commercially into England from Madeira in 1873.

RURAL CARRIERS DIRECTED TO DELIVER INSURED MAIL

The post office department has issued an order effective at once, whereby the rural letter carriers are expected to follow the system in vogue in the city, of personal delivery to the addressee of insured parcel post packages. Heretofore the parcels would be left on top of private mail boxes at entrance to premises, it being a criminal offense for persons other than addressed to interfere with mail.

The new order compels personal delivery and the carrier to take receipt of the party addressed, which must be filed with the office on return of the carrier.

God Drops Great Ideas

From time to time God drops a great idea into the soul of a great man. Often those men who live upon the existing institutions start the fire against the new idea. Sometimes they crucify its apostle; but ideas feed upon fogs, and grow through crucifixions. Newell Dwight Hillis.

TRYING TO SNEAK INTO U. S. RISKY

Many Killed and Robbed
by Smugglers.

Pity the poor alien, who, oppressed by circumstances in his native land decides to come to America, only to find that the quota assigned his nation under the law of the United States has been filled; for of such is the horde of victims preyed upon by the alien-smugglers of Mexico, freebooters, who vie with the famous pirates in blood-thirstiness and unscrupulousness.

The alien who entrusts himself to the mercy of this crew, which agrees for a stipulated fee, to place him upon American soil, has risked not alone capture by the United States immigration officials and consequent deportation to his land of origin, but his very life thereby.

Judging by reports reaching the border from the seaports of Mexico, an eager flock of immigrants constantly floods the towns of the Mexican littoral, each anxious to invade the land of promise beyond the Rio Grande.

Operate From Tampico. Tampico, because of its comparative nearness to the border long has been the favorite landing place for these people; similarly it has been the "hang-out" of several desperate gangs of cut-throats, masked under the guise of alien-smugglers.

The alien handing himself over to the smuggler pays high for the service that is promised, even guaranteed, but which all too often fails to be delivered. The fee is based largely upon what the immigrant may have with him. If he is inquisitive and displays much money, the fee will be as near the sum total as possible. Of course, there is a minimum fee, and without considerable ready cash no alien could count upon starting his trek for the border.

A few, a very few, actually do reach American soil and the comparative safety of the larger cities, where, if they are lucky, they have the opportunity to hide indefinitely.

Many are caught and turned back to their lands by the American immigration authorities but many never reach American soil, or if they do "lav low" to such good purpose that their relatives or friends, waiting anxiously in Mexico, fall ever to hear from them again.

If they go by water, launches are used in the effort. Often their objective is the lower Texas coast, between Brownsville and Corpus Christi, where the practically deserted shore line offers excellent chance of landing without apprehension. If the alien is wise, he insists upon going ashore near Galveston, for the shores between Brownsville and Corpus Christi are sparsely populated and there is excellent chance that the alien will perish of hunger or thirst, or be compelled to go into some small town, where his appearance would lead to quick arrest.

Many Have Disappeared. Once they pass Galveston and reach Houston, and lie low for a time, they have a chance to enter the interior through the machinations of an "underground railroad" declared by immigration authorities to be operated from headquarters in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities of the East and Middle West. A few even are sent to the Pacific coast, it is said, but not many.

At times launch loads of would-be entrants, and particularly Chinese, have disappeared. The smugglers returning have maintained stoutly that they landed the men on the Texas coast and left them there as they had agreed. But waiting friends or relatives never received word from the men and feared the worst.

The regularity of disappearance of aliens who, singly or in small groups, tried to run the international boundary guard long ago led to suspicion of foul play. This was clinched to certainty when a few months ago a party of six Italians was set upon by the Mexicans who had been hired to smuggle them across the Rio Grande. Five died, while the sixth, aided by darkness, escaped. Two Mexicans were executed by a firing squad for this murder.

Radio Craze Affects 2,000,000 Britishers

More than 2,200 miles of aerial wire have been erected in Great Britain in the last twelve months, so much has the radio craze seized the public. It is estimated by officials of the British Broadcasting company that 2,000,000 people are entertained daily at a cost of a farthing each.

The company claims that wireless has stimulated industry considerably. It has necessitated the opening up of a new subhead in the directory for "wireless supplies dealers."

Five hundred thousand dollars has been paid to the entertainment industry in salaries, fees and copyright royalties, and large numbers of engineers and studio staffs are given employment at the various sending stations.

Sugar From Bulrushes

German and Austrian scientists have come forward with the statement that bulrushes and certain other kinds of water grasses and reeds contain sugar, and possibly in sufficient quantity for commercial use. A content in some cases as high as 25 per cent is mentioned. Plans are in hand to start a factory.

KEENEY'S CONCERT ORCHESTRA

Straight as a whistle, the farm and the little red brick country schoolhouse leads to the White House mansion. This is a fact, not fiction. Look at the history of our presidents.

It is the story of young lads born and bred on a farm.

Learning to read at their mother's knee, helping with chores, ploughing, seeding, haying, painting barns, splitting rails, and the like, in the summer time, and trudging miles in the winter to the schoolhouse to learn the three "R's" by an overworked school marm trying her best to discipline half a hundred pupils. More presidents owe their training to the farm than to any other factor. It's the Country Kid who is the backbone of the nation.

GOLDEN RULE

All races have a Golden Rule expressed in one form or another. Here are a few of them:

"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them"—Christian

"Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated"—Mohammedan

"Do as you would be done by."—Persian

"Do not that to a neighbor which you would take ill from him"—Greek

"What you would not wish done to yourself, do not unto others"—Chinese

"One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self."—Buddhist

"He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on."—Egyptian

READ AND REFLECT

Consider well, before admitting a mistake. It may never be discovered.

Anyone can keep his troubles to himself, but it takes art to conceal them.

One never has reprieve for the disagreeable because one is never prepared for it. Be vigilant.

A place for everything and everything in the place—but for goodness' sake, never change the place.

Put the test of power and responsibility on a plain ordinary man and he will frequently develop the ability to meet it.

The wise individual never stumbles over the same stone twice. When he passes that way the second time it isn't there.

What is one's greatest fault? Yes, of course, there is the absence of some of the standard virtues, yet it may be most of all, the fear of taking chances.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE

Of course every husband knows how to manage his wife, but—

Solomon was the wisest man of his day, yet he was hopelessly married.

If a woman is in a position to support a husband she can afford to do without one.

The man who forgets to kiss his wife good-by is, however, no worse than the wife who fails to notice the omission.

When a woman is sick she takes a good deal of pride in thinking of the miserable life her husband would lead if she were dead.

Yes, we have Zucca's Singing Orchestra Monday evening, March 10, at Pythian Hall.—Advertisement.

WITH THE GIRLS

It is impossible for a woman to preserve a secret so that it will keep.

All the world kids a lover—because a lover is too happy to get angry.

If a girl can only become engaged she is seldom in a hurry to get married.

Every woman knows she's a coquette but she thinks no others suspect it.

Love is a wonderful thing yet there are people who would rather marry for money.

You can't believe everything a woman says who compliments another on her beauty.

One kind of dark secret is the method employed by a bleached blonde in keeping her hair light.

A girl thinks it is wrong for a young man to attempt to kiss her, and a young widow thinks it is wrong if he doesn't succeed.

SAID IN PASSING

Optimism is that nothing but sentiment can be slothism.

To a man the best music is some old tune that stirs a pleasant or a plaintive memory.

Most people grumble and give to charity, and wouldn't feel happy if they didn't.

Motor cars are so numerous now that no one attempts to attract as much attention as a fire engine.

People don't so much mind a likable man having radical ideas, but they hate to see him get worked up about 'em.

In order to successfully fool people it is necessary to devote one's whole time to it, and become a professional fooler.

If anybody near can enlighten you in a matter of information it won't be necessary to go to the encyclopedia. He always will.

Rather Bad, Anyhow

A woman, rather dear, who lives in an upper maisonnette, descended the stairs to answer a knock, and found a policeman outside.

She seemed alarmed, and the policeman said: "I haven't come to tell you bad news."

All she heard was "bad news," and she collapsed on the stairs. The policeman carried her upstairs.

When she revived she heard him say: "Will you take a ticket for our police concert?"

Force of Habit

She (to her publisher fiancé)—While I'm in the country, I'm going to write you every day, love. He (absentmindedly)—Yes, do, and please write on one side only and don't forget to enclose return postage in case I can't use it.

Cavalry in The Civil War

Captain C. Meech Woolsey Writes of Many Interesting Incidents of Life in Camp.

In the Civil War, cavalry regiments were organized in twelve companies of a hundred men and officers each. The company was the unit. And as one or more companies were formed, they were sent to a camp of instruction, and carbine and saber exercises were had, and the troops drilled dismounted until horses were furnished. And when the regiment was filled there were drills by companies and by the regiment as such. The drills mounted and dismounted were the same, that is they were both counted off by fours by platoons and squadrons the same, and performed the same evolutions.

It was necessary in many cases to use men dismounted where the cavalry could not go. By company or regiment front in the drill, it was important to learn the alignment so that when the troops were at a walk they could keep their horses' heads all on the same line.

The next was the order to "Trot March." Then the troops would be taught that they must come up together and keep the alignment, and after that the command of "Charge March" was given, then they all started at a gallop, and this was quite difficult to keep an alignment as some horses were much faster than others, but with practice this was accomplished and all came up at the same time.

When the camp was liable to be of short duration, and the weather permitted, "A" tents were used for shelter. These were made by two soldiers putting their canvas tent cloth together to form a letter A, and fastened it to the ground in that shape. The canvas had buttons and straps to hold it together, and two corners would occupy one of these. But when the soldiers went into winter quarters, something more substantial was to be depended upon and log cabins were generally built.

In the winter of 1864-65, and after the return from the march of December 20, 1864, the cavalry of Sheridan's army commanded by General Custer and others took up their winter quarters in the vicinity of Winchester. The regiments were distributed about in that vicinity in places where there was timber growing. Each company laid out a company's street and built their cabins on each side with the horses tethered in the rear. They cut down the timber, cut it in lengths of about twelve feet, split them, notched them at the ends, fastened them together, buttoned together their canvas and fastened it on for a roof. A small fireplace was built at one end or outside. Each cabin of this kind was supposed to contain four men. It gave little room, but it furnished shelter.

In front of the company's street the officers had their tents, and some distance in front, the regimental officers had theirs.

The doings of the camp were somewhat as follows: The first thing in the morning, the men of each company were lined up in their respective streets and the orderly sergeant called the roll. He marked as present all those who answered, and marked the names of those absent at the hospital, on furlough or otherwise. He then reported his roll to the adjutant of the regiment. By this means, it was known every day the number of men present for duty and the whereabouts of those who were absent.

Then there was the detail of troops from the regiment or brigade for picket duty, and the detail for camp guard and duty. An officer of each regiment was appointed as the officer of the day, and while on duty he wore a red sash. He was virtually in command of the camp for the day. It was his duty with assistance to see that the horses were properly taken care of, and that the camp was properly ordered and polished, that all camp orders and ordinances were performed. Then there were drills mounted and dismounted, so that the duties of the day were well kept up.

Each regiment had a guard house where all culprits were put for ill conduct, disobedience to orders, etc. The camp guard was entirely for service at the camp. It arrested all offenders and took them to the guard house. It also prevented persons at night from entering or leaving the camp unless they could give the countersign, and in case they could not give it, the soldier on guard called up the corporal or sergeant who examined the man, let him pass in, turned him away, or if suspicious, arrested him for further examination.

The rations issued were the usual ones consisting of salt pork, hard-tack, tea and coffee, and in addition at times fresh meat, potatoes and other vegetables. Rations were issued about three times a week, under some conditions longer than that time of less. The regimental commissary made application at the camp for the men who were reported present for duty to the adjutant of the regiment as above stated. The supplies were then divided up and issued to the commissary of each company, he receiving rations for the number reported present for service in his company. The issue for each man was established by the orders. I might say here that the rations were ample and every one was well supplied.

The soldiers prepared their food over their own fires, and it was wholesome if not always clean, as the utensils and dishes seldom received a washing.

Sometimes foraging parties were sent out from the regiment or brigade, who went into the country and seized upon provisions, poultry, live-stock, etc. The officers in command would give the owner receipts for what was taken, and afterward, if he could prove his loyalty to the government he was paid for the same. The property thus brought into camp was distributed through the regiments for their use. The soldiers were not permitted to go out and plunder upon the people but sometimes parties would get away in the night past the guard and appropriate such things as they found. It was impossible to always prevent this and mete out deserved punishment.

After the troops went into camp, it was quite usual for people of the surrounding country to come into camp and make application for a "safeguard," and in such cases a soldier was always sent for their protection, but he left his horse in camp as it might be stolen, if taken, and he drew his rations from time to time the same as in camp.

It was often necessary for the "safeguard" to return to camp and to draw his rations and obtain such of his belongings as he required. On some of such occasions he would come into camp mounted on a horse behind a girl, and then the soldiers would commence to cry out, "There he comes. Here he comes. Put him in a nose-bag. Put him in a nose-bag, etc. etc." (This was used in the army by way of derision.) The "safeguard" would then reply, "You fellows can all go to H—, I know what this is. You are all jealous. Don't you wish you were a 'safeguard'? Lots of nice things to eat and nothing to do." And lots of other things were said among them.

The nose-bag was a canvas receptacle that was fastened over the horse's head from which he ate his rations and was carried along on the march by every soldier. At the time of the war, the Virginia people rode on horse back very much, and many of the farmers' girls had horses of their own, which were great pets, and which they used in going about the country.

No one ever troubled a house where a "safeguard" was stationed as under the articles of war it was a great crime and received severe punishment. "Sometimes a 'safeguard' would be at a house for weeks at a time and he always liked it very much. It was considered a good thing.

Each regiment or brigade generally had a sutler, and people outside at times brought in articles to sell, so that a soldier, if he had the price, could obtain many things besides his rations.

Most of the duties of the camp were directed by the call of the bugle. You got up by the call and went to bed by it, and lights in camp were put out by it. The regimental bugler blew the calls and the bugler of each company repeated them in front of his company.

There was at times a brigade band, who were present at guard mounting and often played for the troops.

The camps were kept nice and clean and the tents were inspected. Sick horses were taken care of. Horses were kept well shod by the farriers who had forges for that purpose, and every horse was fitted with two extra shoes, one for a front and one for a hind foot, so on the march a soldier could fall out of the ranks if a horse lost a shoe, and the farrier would nail it on.

Each regiment had a chaplain who assisted the soldiers in writing their letters, visited them when sick, and held religious services from time to time, and corresponded with the relatives and friends of the soldiers who were wounded, sick or dead.

There were two regimental doctors to each regiment, who were always with the regiments and present for duty. There was generally an officers' school for instruction in their duties, and obligations to their men, as well as in the manual of arms and the articles of war.

Tobacco was always in demand, and the people would come in and trade it off with the soldiers for coffee and salt.

Court-martials were frequently held in camp. The commander of a brigade or division or other proper authority would order a court-martial when necessary and appoint the officers who were to hold it. It had a judge advocate who acted as the foreman or as chief judge of the court and conducted the proceedings. Evidence was taken and proceedings had somewhat quite similar to proceedings in a court at law. The determination of their proceedings was referred to the proper authority for confirmation or rejection.

In January 1865 such a court was held in our camp for desertion of several soldiers of our brigade who had deserted, as they supposed to the enemy, whereas they had deserted to some of our scouts who were dressed as Confederates and on duty within the enemy's lines, to ascertain the condition and otherwise of the enemy. They were tried and condemned to be shot. The sentence was approved, and the next day they were taken out for execution. The whole of the brigade was turned out and paraded in hollow square formation, and an army wagon carrying the coffins, on which were seated the condemned, and led by a mounted band playing a funeral dirge, were driven around the hollow square in the presence of all the troops to the open graves, and the culprits seated upon their coffins were shot to death by a firing squad.

I might say, in such cases, only a part of the guns are loaded and given to the squad so that no man knows who fired the fatal shot. The troops were then marched by where the dead men lay.

During this winter of 1864-65, which was a very severe one, and conditions very hard at the camp, there had been many desertions, and this extreme measure was taken as a warning to all deserters. This court-martial was ordered by General Sheridan.

I never knew of whisky being issued but once, and that was when General Custer's division returned from the raid up the valley in the latter part of December, 1864. The troops were out several days and nights without any tents or shelter, insufficient provision, through snow and rain, and upon their return they were in a deplorable condition, and a gill of whisky was issued to each soldier. Hundreds of men that night tasted alcohol for the first time.

The "safeguards" were called in when camp was to be moved.

The "long roll" was sounded, the soldiers saddled their horses, packed up such belongings as they could take, formed in front of the company's street, the drums were beating, beating, beating, beating as the army marched out, no soldier knew where.

Milton, N. Y., March, 1924, Captain C. M. Woolsey.

Paradise Nuts

Paradise nuts are sweet and oily and resemble the brazil nut. The nuts are formed inside a large urn-shaped shell, commonly known as a "monkey pot," similar in construction to that enclosing brazil nuts, but much larger. When a mature pod falls to the ground the natural gas within blows off the nut, scattering the nuts, and at the same time producing a characteristic report which brings all the neighboring monkeys rushing to the feast.

Where Bears Live

The black bear is the best-known member of this family in North America. Three of his grand-uncles live in northern latitudes, the white polar bear amongst the ice on the Arctic ocean, the grizzly in the remote fastnesses of the Rockies, and the Kodiak, that giant amongst wild animals, on the islands adjacent to the coast of Alaska. These three species are very much larger than their dusky relative, but are not nearly so harmless and attractive.—Nature Magazine.

LARGE CROSS BURNED

ON A FISHKILL KNOLL

Fishkill residents were aroused on Tuesday night by the burning of a huge fiery cross, the symbol of the Ku Klux Klan, on a knoll opposite the Vandervoort home near the Fishkill Rural Cemetery. The cross stood at least 20 feet high and was made of heavy timbers wrapped in oiled cloth and waste. The cross is the biggest ever reported in this vicinity and attracted much attention. A large throng of onlookers gathered to watch the cross itself. No sign of Klansmen or others responsible for the huge cross was seen. The huge cross was brought to the knoll in an automobile or truck. Several other crosses have been burned in the vicinity of Fishkill in the past few months.

ASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Weeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and lustrous.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Weeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Crowds Around The Chrysler

The Chrysler shown by the Stuyvesant Garage was the center of attraction at the show last night when hundreds of people examined this new product. Chrysler six in the medium priced field has attracted nationwide attention since its introduction at the New York show and for the first time Kingston people will have a chance to examine this car at the show. A touring model is shown. With a motor capable of turning out 70 miles an hour and at the same time combined with economy, the Chrysler is bound to be a popular car. In the Chrysler it is claimed vibration is unknown.

Rickenbacker Fully Equipped

To demonstrate the construction of the four wheel brake, one wheel has been removed from the Rickenbacker touring car exhibited at the show. This car which is one of the first cars to attract the attention of the visitor at the show is a stock model car. The Rickenbacker comes fully equipped with all of the accessories shown and it is needless to visit the accessory booths if you have purchased a Rickenbacker from the Columbia Garage for nothing is lacking.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

At Keeney's Theater tonight and Saturday, "The Country Kid," a Warner brothers classic of the screen will be shown. Wesley Barry, the genial faced screen star, plays the leading role.

At the Opera House tonight and on Saturday the same vaudeville bill as staged Thursday will be programmed, "Lost and Found," a South Sea Island picture, featuring Pauline Starko, Howe Pete and Antonio Moreno will be shown.

At the Auditorium today Shirley Mason in "Lovebound." To save her father's name, at the mercy of a blackmailer of the underworld, the pretty wife of the district attorney was forced to participate in a diamond swindle. Then her husband discovered the truth.

The Orpheum Theatre offers a good vaudeville bill for today and tomorrow. Boyd Kiddies give a clever dancing and singing revue and Madison in "The Traffic Cop," presents a novelty comedy act. The feature picture is "The Marriage Market" with Jack Mullah and Alice Lake.

Eighth Annual Auto Show

With the increased sale of automobiles and the choice of the Prohibition Director to open this show. In order to give him a chance to deny my suspicions or to admit my conclusions, I take great pleasure in presenting to you Ex-Mayor Canfield.

Mr. Canfield spoke as follows: "When I look about me I recall the first automobile show held here eight years ago. If I remember rightly, Judge Hasbrouck presided and presented Governor Whitman and myself. Then we all thought the automobile was a giant industry. Now, when we compare those days with today, we realize that it was only a pygmy in comparison with its present stature.

In their splendid undertakings in holding these annual displays, the automobile dealers have not only brought success but they have deserved it. There have been no crossed bayonets, no daggers drawn. They banded together and joined forces and acted in concert and made this show a common cause for their best efforts. So we salute them and congratulate them and bring to them the compliments and best wishes of the car owners and the car "wanters," which together constitute all the people.

In truth and in fact, all who visit this wonderful display of automobiles will be "wanters" whether they own a car or not. Those who have one will become possessed with the desire for the newer model with added conveniences and comforts and with more attractive appearance.

"I am reminded of the story told of Mr. Choate when he was ambassador to the Court of St. James. He was present at a function and his plain American evening clothes contrasted sharply with the uniforms of the officials from other countries. At a late hour an Austrian diplomat approached him as he stood near the door, obviously taking him for a servant, said, 'Call a cab.' Mr. Choate replied affably, 'You're a cab, sir.' The diplomat was indignant and went to the host and said a servant had insulted him and pointed to Mr. Choate. Explanations and introductions followed and the Austrian diplomat apologized. 'That's all right,' said Mr. Choate, 'only I should have called you a hansom cab.' So we can say to each automobile here 'you're a handsome car.'

"I wonder if we realize the real value of our automobiles. Books of statistics can be given and all are interesting and impressive. We know of its place in business, industry, in pleasurable recreation. Yet, do we appreciate its value as a preserver of peace. Unlike the Roman, no one in America has a sincere voice for war. Peace is desired by all. What country will fight the United States of America upon its own soil when it has more than four times as many automobiles as all the rest of the world put together? What country would not take that into consideration before plunging into war with our country? We know what the cabs of Paris did in aiding to stem the tide of a crucial time of the World War. In ancient times the people built a high and solid wall for protection. Today our 15,000,000 automobiles constitute a high and solid wall of protection and defense from martial aggression.

"Another benefit too great to be weighed or gauged is the bringing the country to the city and the city to the country. The automobile came when our urban and rural populations were growing farther apart. The automobile has brought them nearer and closer together. It has caused a contact. It has given a better insight and comprehension one of the other. It has caused them to have a more appreciative recognition of the position of each other. There is better cooperation and understanding. They know each other better. The automobile has done this and it is one of its greatest achievements.

"Then the automobile has helped to sustain law enforcement. The hundreds of thousands of men employed in automobile factories are required to be sober and law abiding. The millions who drive cars have become familiar not only with the law of the road but with the necessity for laws to govern our actions in all things in coming in contact with each other. One of the wise men of Greece said 'The first of things is water.' Anyone of these millions of drivers are willing to let the automobile they pass upon the road have a mixture of alcohol and water in the radiator but none want a mixture of alcohol and water in the driver of the other car, especially in the night time.

"Then the auto owners of Ulster county obtain a particular benefit and have a special opportunity in the pleasures of motoring. Drive, if you will, down the Hudson river road through the town of Esopus to Highland, or northerly to Saugerties, along the Walkill Valley to New Paltz and beyond, or through the Rondout Valley to Ellenville, or up the Esopus Valley around the Ashokan Reservoir through Phoenicia to Pine Hill, and everywhere you see the beauties of nature, the glory of the country, the majesty of the mountains, the grandeur of it. All must necessarily make of every one a lover of nature and cause all who drink it in to become intoxicated in the only way I hope good Ulster days.

At a certain club there is a rule that anyone who asks a question that he cannot answer must pay a fine. One member presented a question as to why a ground squirrel left no dirt in digging a hole. He was finally called on for an answer, and he explained that the squirrel began at the bottom and dug upward. "Excellent," said a member, "but how does the squirrel manage to reach the bottom?" The reply was, "That is your question."

So I say to you that all the automobiles upon display are good cars. When you say 'which is the best car for me at the price I desire to pay and for the service I require,' I reply 'that is your question.' Look around carefully and decide.

Constable Chains Car to Track

Failure of New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie Traction Company To Pay Taxes To Town Of Lloyd Results In Seizure Of Trolley Car.

Tuesday morning, Ralph Lyon, constable of the Town of Lloyd, seized a trolley car of the New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie Traction Company and chained the car fast to the tracks near the West shore railroad crossing at Highland. George H. Canfield, town collector, issued the order of seizure. Failure on the part of the company to pay its taxes to the town of Lloyd caused the town authorities to take action.

For the past several years there has been almost continual tax litigation between the town and the management of the trolley company and once before this resulted in the seizure of the rolling stock of the company for unpaid taxes. The amount of tax due to the town is $1,917.02. This amount is made up of principal, $1,825.73 and penalty of five per cent, $91.29.

Essex Stresses Its Roadability

The new Essex six which is shown by Peter A. Black along with its bigger brother the Hudson attracts a great deal of attention from the crowds at the automobile show. The new Essex is one of the lowest cars at the show in appearance resembling the foreign type of car. In lowering the car space in the body has not been sacrificed and road clearance has not been reduced. The new Essex is equipped with the same type of motor as the famous patented motor of the Hudson. In Essex a small bore long stroke motor gives ample power and speed for every desire. An unusual spring suspension and frame arrangement permits speed with safety even in this light type of car.

KERRHONKSON SEWING MEETING ON MARCH 12

A Kerhonkson Community Sewing Meeting will be held at the Reformed Sunday school room on Wednesday, March 12, under the leadership of Mrs. Skinner of Kyserike. It will be an all day meeting from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Anyone wishing help with sewing for children or adults, is requested to bring it to the meeting. Everybody welcome to come and have a good time and bring along lunch.

Flint's Top as Hard as Name

At the booth of S. J. Van Kleeck, dealer in Orange, Ulster and Greene counties for the Flint car, a large crowd milled about while two young men clambered up on top of the car and there performed feats to demonstrate the strength of the permanent top of the touring car. In demonstrating the strength the young men walked about over the top as though they were on a board-walk. After the young men clambered down the crowd still remained, either amazed at the feat or perhaps waiting for "Sam" to climb up and demonstrate what would happen when a "Fat" man performed the feat. However the crowd was disappointed for "Sam" remained safely on the floor and continued to explain why it was that the top was able to support such a weight without injury to the car.

COMMUNITY MEETING AT GARDINER ON MARCH 11

On March 11 at 2 p. m., a regular community meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McElhone in Gardiner. The subject for discussion will be "Care of the Feet, and Caring the Feet." There will be an exhibit of shoes showing correct and incorrect lines. As many people are interested in discussions on care of the feet, it is hoped that there will be a goodly attendance.

To Remodel Bank At Saugerties

Plans are now under way for the remodeling and renovating of the interior of the Saugerties Savings Bank on Main street, Saugerties. A large amount of marble will adorn the interior and a tile floor will also be added. A new vault, one of the most up-to-date and best of its kind, will also be installed. The contracts have not been awarded as yet. During the remodeling, etc., the Saugerties Savings Bank will conduct business in the Russell Block, corner Market and Main streets in the store, now occupied by G. M. Russell.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, March 7.—The Port Ewen Library Association wishes to thank each and every member of the association as well as others of the community, who assisted in making the card party a success Monday night, and the Knights of Pythias for the use of their lodge rooms. They also wish to express their appreciation for the generosity of the merchants of Kingston for their gifts of prizes.

Three tables were used at the card party are being held to await the owners as they are unnamed. Kindly notify Mrs. Sullivan and they will be returned.

The annual pot-luck dinner of the Ladies' Aid Society and their families will be held in the chapel of the Methodist Church, Thursday afternoon, March 20. Dinner will be served promptly at noon. The yearly mite boxes will be opened at this meeting.

Party at Flatbush.

Flatbush, March 6.—The home of Samuel Astolas in Flatbush was the scene of a most delightful leap year party on the evening of February 29. It also being Mr. Astolas' tenth birthday anniversary, although born forty years ago, on February 29, 1884. There were about fifty relatives, neighbors and friends present and with music, singing, card games and dancing an enjoyable time was had by all. Winners at the card games were Paul Saban, Joseph Celuch, Paul Caban, Lena Kish and Pauline Sulko. There was a novelty fox trot by Joseph Cherney and Mrs. Frank Dentler, a prize waltz by Mrs. G. Wanchak and Frank Dentler, while Joseph Cherney dressed as a Scotchman and Paul Caban dressed as an Englishman amused with a comedy sketch. At midnight a bountiful luncheon was served and a few hours later the guests departed wishing Mr. Astolas at least ten more leap year birthday anniversaries.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, March 7.—Mrs. Deyo W. Johnson has resigned her position as teacher of English in the Junior High School, and Miss Eleanor DuVal, who has been spending some time at New Paltz Normal, will take her place.

Abraham Klotz and son, Herman Klotz, the owners of Mount Meenahga House and cottages, spent several days in Ellenville and at Meenahga during the week.

Bert H. Terwilliger expects to leave for Hot Springs, Ark., within the next week, where he will take some baths and other treatment for rheumatism, from which he has been suffering lately.

Senior Class Day was celebrated at the high school on Thursday. A saxophone solo was rendered by Grace Tice, piano solos by Margaret Moore, and the class cheer and class song were given with a great deal of vim. The seniors evidently think they are the only live ones in the high school, but just wait till the juniors show their colors.

"Tony, the Convict," is coming March 19 and 20, at the high school auditorium, by the junior class. Tickets are already on sale.

At the masquerade ball at the Kimbel House rooms on Saturday evening, March 1, Peter Schatzel won the first prize for the best costume. Mr. Schatzel was dressed as a negro, wearing a Palm Beach suit, Panama hat and everything that goes with it.

A number of young girls from the high school have started training at the local telephone office. Among them are the Misses Lillian Barber, Arvilla Davis, Helen Johnson, Adele McDowell, Sarah Cline, Mildred Green, Carol Stevens, Mary and Evelyn Dunn, Bernice Fitzgerald, Virginia Barkley.

A number of Ellenville men went to Albany on Thursday to attend the hearing on the Ellenville-Wurtsboro road.

Miss Jane Taylor has been ill with indigestion for several days.

Sidney Delaney, who has been laid up for about two weeks on account of an abscess on his leg, has recovered and has resumed his studies at the high school again.

George W. Mance has moved into the store heretofore occupied by Joseph Hyatt, in the Corling block.

Lionel Booth came over from Peekskill Wednesday to see his father, former Mayor Booth, who has been ill for several months past, suffering from trouble with his eyes. The many friends of Mr. Booth hope for a speedy recovery.

Raymond Opdenbrow of Poughkeepsie and Cortland Van Gorden of Lake Minnekaupis spent the week end at their home in Ellenville.

Howard Richards, who has been in Jacksonville, Florida, since last May, returned home Friday, accompanied by Mrs. Richards, and will work with his father in the meat business.

Mrs. Lillie B. Forster with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Smith, of Hurstville are spending some time in St. Petersburg, Fla., pleasantly located at the Hotel Cunningham.

The contract for wiring the new Veterans' Memorial Hospital has been given to the Ellenville Electric Co. The committee has purchased material for floors and Lawrence Kerr will do the work of laying it. The local merchants are generously cooperating with the hospital in the matter of giving wholesale prices on articles.

Mrs. William Wagar of Walden is visiting her sister, Mrs. Cora Vandemark, of Ellenville.

Erhard Rosenberger and family have returned from Brooklyn.

St. Andrew's Church cleared $240 at their supper in Norbury Hall last week.

The Hunt Memorial Bible Class of the M. E. Church will meet with Mrs. H. W. Coons next Monday evening.

Miss Emma Johnson will lead the Epworth League meeting on Sunday evening. The subject is "The Epworth League's Task."

The annual business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will be held in the lecture room on Thursday, March 13, at 3 p. m. A social tea will follow the business session.

Sewing Circle of the Lutheran Church at Nester Palmer's on Thursday afternoon.

Luther League dime social in the annex of the church Tuesday evening. Refreshments will be served.

Desert Hero Learned Marriage Was Subduing

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, English traveler, who recently paid a visit in his native haunts to Raisuli, Morocco's bandit chief, who did recently, relates in the New York Times a story concerning the way a desert Romeo was tamed, and how he was made wise in the taming.

The Romeo, a big, strong and handsome tribesman, rode better, shot better and was just about a better man all around than his fellows, when one day the sheriff, Raisuli, thought he would confer a favor upon him in recognition of his prowess. The sheriff asked him what he desired.

"Marry me," implored the Romeo, "marry me."

Raisuli looked about for a suitable wife, and found one, a desert maiden of the form and face. The wedding took place with a great to-do. But, thereafter, the man changed his ways. He stuck to his tent. He quit displaying his abilities altogether. He idly around his home he sat, and his fellows wondered. Then one day a spirited horse, one of the finest belonging to the tribe, got loose. Men started after it, and the animal passed by Romeo's tent.

The pursuers were expending a lot of effort with no result. Puffing and panting, they came upon the newlywed at his tent.

"What shall we do, what shall we do?" they shouted, as the stallion hooped it swiftly away.

"Marry him," answered the forlorn Romeo, "marry him."

Congressmen Issue Denials

Langley and Zihman Answer Gossip By Saying They Have Done No Wrong.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 7.—The capital's newest scandal, in which a Chicago grand jury charged two members of congress with accepting bribes today awaited action by the department of justice on a house resolution demanding publication of the names of the accused congressmen.

Gossip in capitol cloak rooms linked the names of Representative John W. Langley, Republican, Kentucky, and Representative Frederick Zihman, Republican, Maryland, with the case so insistently that both members issued public statements denying all wrong doing.

The situation was unique in congressional history. Neither member stood charged with any crime but confidential reports, attributed to a "leak" in the department of justice, gave their names such repeated circulation that, acting independently, the two congressmen finally moved to end the gossip.

The decision holds that as Kline did not have any beneficial interest in the funds they all belong to the clients.

Mr. Gillespie brought the action for an accounting by the Van Burens for the balance of $10,000 in their hands arising out of Kline's stock brokerage transactions with them. Judge Clearwater, representing the Van Burens, moved before Judge Rosch to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that it did not contain facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. This was denied by Judge Rosch and the Van Burens appealed to the Appellate Division.

The decision in the case on appeal follows:

The motion to dismiss the complaint should have been granted.

The relation between the clients of the Kingston office and Kline was that of principal and agent, not debtor and creditor. The funds and securities placed in Kline's hands by these clients were still the property of these clients. They never belonged to Kline; they were in the nature of trust funds in his hands. When they went into defendants' hands they remained the property of the clients. When they had been sold, the balance of the proceeds, above the amount for which they were pledged, remained the property of these clients. No title or interest in these funds ever passed to the plaintiff, the general assignee of Kline. The general assignee can take no other or greater interest in or title to the funds in question than rested in Kline (Dickinson v. First National Bank, 64 A. D. 254; Willard v. White, 56 Hun, 581). There is no allegation in the complaint direct or by inference, that Kline had any beneficial interest in the credit balance in the hands of the defendants, or in the account kept in his name; or that he made any purchases of securities or other property through defendants on his own behalf, all his transactions being on behalf of clients of the Kingston office and all moneys and securities transmitted by Kline to the defendants being the property of said clients.

A party who has no interest in the subject matter to be accounted for cannot maintain an action for an accounting. The ultimate purpose of an accounting is to recover something. Unless it shall appear that Kline, during the time stated in the complaint, gave some orders on his own account and transacted some of his own funds or securities to defendants we think a cause of action will not be stated. It is also to be noted the clients who are entitled to the credit balance in defendants' hands are not made parties.

The order should be reversed, with ten dollars costs and disbursements, and the motion granted, with ten dollars costs, with the privilege to the plaintiff, upon payment of the costs to plead over, and if so advised, to serve an amended summons and complaint within twenty days after notice of the entry of the order herein.

The funeral of Richard R. Terwilliger, who died in this city on Monday, was held from the late residence, 507 Washington avenue, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The services, which were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seely, pastor of the Fair Street

City Chambers, City Hall, on the evening of Tuesday, March 11, 1924, at 7 30 o'clock p. m. at which time plans will be presented for the adoption of a proper ordinance to cover traffic conditions in the city of Kingston.
English owners, bus owners, and all interested or who may have suggestions to offer are requested to attend this meeting, Tuesday, March 6, 1924.
A. A. STYLES,
City Clerk.

Daugherty Back; Ready for Fight

Feels Best In Five Years, He Says—Attends Cabinet Meeting—His Department Will Speak When Time Comes.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 7.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty returned to Washington today from a week's absence apparently determined to give battle to those who seek to compel his retirement from the cabinet.

The attorney general arrived from Miami shortly after 10 o'clock and motored direct from the union station to attend the cabinet meeting at the White House.

Renewed pressure of the heaviest sort has been brought to bear on President Coolidge during Daugherty's absence for the president to demand his retirement.

The attorney general had little to say this morning but it was evident he was still as determined as ever not to be forced out of the cabinet until he has had his "day in court" at the hands of the special senate committee appointed to investigate his administration of the department of justice.

"I'm feeling fine, never better in five years," he told reporters, and then shook his head at all their questions.

He was uncommunicative concerning the house resolution passed yesterday, demanding that the development of justice name the two congressmen accused of accepting bribes for use of political influence in the department.

"The department of justice will have something to say when the time comes and when there is something to say," he told questioners.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR TWO NIGHTS AND A DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Leander J. Miller of Ellenville had a most peculiar experience last week. They retired as usual on Thursday evening, but Mrs. Miller later complained of not feeling well and Mr. Miller started to an adjoining room for medicine. He did not return for some time and his wife found him unconscious in the next room. After getting him back to bed, she too collapsed. On Saturday morning following Mr. Miller finally aroused himself and found his wife was unable to speak, having suffered a stroke of paralysis. Of course Mr. Miller didn't know he was a day behind in his reckoning until he went to the Shook feed store, where he is employed. Both are getting along nicely under the care of Dr. Neal.

CONDEMNATION COMMISSION TO HEAR CLAIMANTS APRIL 2

Andrew Wright Lent, E. DePuy Anderson and William Moyle, the commission appointed Wednesday by County Judge Fowler to appraise damages on lands sought to be condemned along the Palenville-Saugerties highway. Part 1, for highway improvement, upon the application of John W. Eckert, county attorney, for the board of supervisors have set Wednesday, April 2, at 12 o'clock, noon, as the date for the first hearing of parties claiming an interest in the damages to be awarded.

TWO AUTO CRASHES AT SAME CORNER THURSDAY

Two minor auto collisions at the corner of Broadway and Henry street, were reported to the police department Thursday. In the first, the interlock delivery car collided with Van Demark's moving van. Both cars were damaged. The interlock car was driven by Charles E. Quigley.

The other collision was between the cars of James Dorgan of Saugerties, and Jesse Ellsworth of Pine Hill, in which both cars were somewhat damaged.

You will also take notice that at such meeting the uncollected book accounts will be sold by the Trustee.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS IN NORTHERN ENGLAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, March 7.—Severe earth tremors, which rocked buildings and upset furniture, were felt in the eastern part of Derbyshire in northern England today.

Residents of towns fled into the streets in alarm.

No casualties were reported.

Move to Reform Poughkeepsie.

A newly formed men's division of the Law Enforcement League of Poughkeepsie is aiming to purge Poughkeepsie and Dutchess county of all its sins, both real and alleged.

The league hopes to drive liquor sellers out of town for one thing.

Members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs of Poughkeepsie have representatives and many prominent men have joined the league. Mrs. Roswell Miller, a member of the national organization, said to be a fearless leader, will hold in the work. The police department and the district attorney's office will cooperate.

"Y" Secretary Addresses Hi-Y

Frank Howe, General Secretary of Albany Y. M. C. A., Tells Club Members To Set Example To The World—War Was Unnecessary As The Cream Of The Land Was Slaughtered.

A regular Hi-Y meeting was held on Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. After a few business matters had been transacted, Thiel, president, led prayer and devotion. President Vogt then introduced Frank Howe, Jr., general secretary of the Albany Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Howe opened with a few choice jokes getting the attention of his audience. He said that when he went to school they had no societies or clubs but that a certain clique always ran the school. He said that the business world expects leadership from the young fellows who are now in school and who are taking part in different clubs.

Some people who go to Europe spend a day in Paris and then take a night train to some other country. When they arrive home they tell all about France and write articles about it. That is absolute folly. You don't know all about France just because you have been in Paris. Suppose some foreigner comes to the United States and stays in New York. He walks up and down the "White Way" and sees Wall street. The next day he goes to Canada. When he returns to Europe he tells his friends of the "Great White Way" and about Wall street. They think that all Americans are like that, which is not so.

We cannot see a country just by going into its capital, because its capital is nearly always a cosmopolitan city and we can learn nothing of the real life of that country. If we wish to see the country we must go back into the country, into the farms and villages.

Foreign students, who come here seldom meet the real Americans. When they go back to their countries they carry a wrong impression of America. This may interfere with international relations in years to come.

Some of the most intelligent politicians take a trip to Europe and when they return they write articles telling Europe how it should run itself. They say unwise things and these things are printed in the European countries. Everybody over there is watching America in every move. They want to see what we'll do next and these speeches and articles make bad impressions.

Mr. Howe said that he went to Belleau Woods last spring. He said that the graves were all well kept and were not all run down as some people would have it. It is fine to see the American flag waving over even a small piece of land in a foreign country.

He then told about a conference which was attended by men from all countries to determine what the young people should be taught. There were 900 delegates who were there at their own expense for 12 days. This is a serious question.

Mr. Howe said that somehow or other we should try to eliminate wars. In wars, the cream of young manhood is taken from honest walks of life and are slaughtered. What is gained by war? The young people of this country are needed to act as leaders, should try to make this country as good as possible and should try to establish world brotherhood.

After Mr. Howe's speech quite a few members went on the Hi-Y sleigh to Lake Katrine, where a good time was enjoyed by all.

REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHOIR AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

On Palm Sunday there will be a musical service given at St. John's Church that will be of unusual interest to all music lovers. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock the Church of the Redeemer Lutheran Choir will unite with the choir of St. John's Episcopal Church on Wall street, in giving the Lenten cantata, "The Crucifixion," by Stainer. This cantata, a meditation on the sacred passion of the Holy Redeemer, is one of the most beautiful of sacred compositions sung today.

At the vesper services on the four Sundays preceding Palm Sunday, St. John's Choir will be assisted, first by Miss Mildred Messinger, contralto; on the second by Jacob Mollot, cellist; on the third by Miss Greta Linkletter, soprano; and on the fourth by Carl Pierson, baritone soloist of St. John's Church and Mr. Craig, tenor soloist of the church. There will be short organ recitals on each of the four Sunday afternoons mentioned, given by the organist of St. John's Church, Prof. Frederick Richens.

ALLIGERVILLE.
Alligerville, March 6.—There will be divine service in the Reformed Church next Sunday at 3 p. m., the Rev. T. S. Braithwaite will preach. After the service the election of officers will take place.

Huntingtons Hunt Pirate Gold.

Mrs. Archer M. Huntington.

Mrs. Archer M. Huntington, the former Anna Vaughan Hyatt, sculptress, and her multi-millionaire husband, world-famous book and art collector, have "mysteriously disappeared" from New York on their three-masted schooner yacht "Rosinante," and it is believed by their friends they are on their way to the Cocos Islands, in the South Pacific, where there is said to be buried $50,000,000 in gold stolen from the Spanish churches in Peru in 1820. Mr. Huntington, a great collector of Spanish manuscripts, is said to have learned the whereabouts of the gold from one of them.

The Deacon's Honeymoon.
A three act comedy entitled "The Deacon's Honeymoon," will be given in Odd Fellows' Hall at Ulster Park this evening by Esopus talent under the auspices of the Ulster Park W. C. T. U. The performance will start at 8 o'clock. Home made candy, cake and ice cream will be on sale after the show.

A Brilliant New Model of the Famous Packard Six

The new model Packard Six—now on exhibition at the Automobile Show and in our salesrooms—is a striking example of Packard policy to strive ceaselessly for perfection.

Over 30,000 users would tell you the Packard Six is the finest six-cylinder car on the market and could not be greatly improved. We agree, so far as the basic soundness of Packard Six engineering is concerned.

There are, however, a number of important improvements—such as four-wheel brakes, heavier transmission, easier steering—worthy of close study. Your own best interests urge you to examine this new model at your earliest convenience.

St. Stephen's Vs.
K. H. S. Tonight

This afternoon at the Kingston High School court the St. Stephen's second team will have an opportunity to avenge its defeat by the local varsity quintet. The local team won a very rough contest at Annandale last Friday and a very good game is expected. The college boys are determined to take a fall out of the local boys, who are just as determined to give another drubbing to the college boys.

The chances for a local win are good. The team is in fine shape and is training hard for the eventful Newburgh game.

Coach Anderson has not announced his lineup, but he will probably start the usual regulars: Schmidt and Corrigan as forwards; Vogt, center; McLane and Buchholz as guards.

13 Figures Often in Bruck's Experiences

In 13 cities, in 13 states, in 13 leagues, in 13 years is a record showing how a ball player may travel.

Back in 1908 or 1909 a youngster with a wide curve was signed by Manager Moses B. Strouse of a Baltimore independent team. His name was Freddy Bruck. Playing third for the same nine was Fritz Maisel of the Orioles.

The next spring Jack Dunn grabbed Maisel and Strouse secured Bruck a job at Wilson, N. C. That position started Bruck on a pilgrimage.

Thirteen years Freddy stayed in organized ball. Playing in 13 cities in thirteen states and in 13 leagues was his unique record. Here are the towns which saw his sweeping curve: Wilson, N. C.; Columbus, O.; Jersey City, N. J.; Binghamton, N. Y.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Omaha, Neb.; Lynchburg, Va.; Fort Worth, Tex.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Vancouver, British Columbia; Vicksburg, Miss.; Daytona, Fla.; and Roswell, N. M. Bruck is now in business in Columbus, O., but still plays semi-pro baseball.

Triple Play Termed
Remarkable Exploit

But Far More Skill Needed in Making Double.

Much fuss is made when a team makes a triple play. Certainly it is a rare occurrence and a factor to the position, for with heavy scoring in sight three men are blotted out in an eye wink.

When a spectator sees a triple killing, it will burn in his memory. He is very likely to talk about it for a week. The Athletics made one against Detroit last season.

Runners were on second and first and, of course, nobody out. Cobb was at bat. He lashed a terrific liner down to Galloway, who made a clear catch and threw to Scheer, getting another Tiger. Scheer whipped the ball to first before the other runner could return there and Detroit was out.

That was a remarkable achievement, for with nobody out, runners on base and a man of Cobb's power at the bat, heavy scoring was presaged.

Yet when you analyze a triple play, it is almost an accident. In the first place, the opposing side must have nobody out. Nine out of every ten triple plays are on line drives, which are comparatively easy to handle, certainly not nearly as difficult to gather in as a ground ball.

Sometimes a triple play is the result of a very hard jumping catch on a liner, but not always. As a rule, they travel straight to an opposing infielder and are known as "duck soup."

When a triple play is made on a ground ball, it is nearly always a negative achievement, for some bad base running on the part of the opposition was needed to make it possible.

Therefore, often a triple play, while spectacular and unusual, does not require nearly the skill of a double play on a ground ball. Then the infielder must make a clean stop, often on a difficult chance, and then get the ball very rapidly and accurately to the other infielder.

Then the second player receiving the ball must make a long and hard throw to first base ahead of a runner who is only a few steps away from the bag. Contrast this to the triple play. Both runners in motion at the pitch, a soft catch and plenty of time to throw to the bases before they can return.

In other words, it takes more skill in the majority of cases to make a double play than a triple play, but there is no chance of players ever being lissed by a crowd when they retire three opponents on one batted ball.

Mummified Apes Show Rickets

Although mummified apes of ancient Egypt show evidence of rickets, no definite evidence of this disease has yet been found in the numerous human bodies exhumed from ancient graves of that land.
